TWEAKING NORMS FOR FASTER MINING PROJECT CLEARANCE

MoFE panel recommends doing away with Wildlife Management Plan for faster clearance of mining projects

NEW RULES AS CURRENT PROCEDURES TAKE TIME

A Wildlife Management Plan (WMP) studies the impact of a proposed mining project on wildlife. As per the Forest Conservation Act, 1980, a state must submit a WMP, prepared by a reputed institute, to the Ministry of Forests and Environment (MoFE) before a mining project can be approved. However, this may take time and could delay the project

2% OF PROJECT COST AS COMPENSATION

The Forest Advisory Committee has recommended that 2% of the total project cost towards the implementation of WMP be deposited into the compensatory afforestation fund
Many mining projects are pending in Chhattisgarh, Odisha and Jharkhand due to delay in the preparation of WMP

Cheaper petrol, diesel from today

Centre cuts excise duty on petrol by ₹8/L, diesel by ₹6; In B'luru, petrol will be ₹101.4, diesel ₹87.79

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Centre has finally bitten the bullet on fuel prices as it slashed the excise duty on petrol by ₹8 per litre and on diesel by ₹6 with effect from Sunday. This is the second cut on central excise duty after November 2021 and it will reduce the price of petrol by ₹9.5 per litre and of diesel by ₹7 in Delhi.

The recent excise duty will cost the government around ₹1 lakh crore in revenue per year. "We are reducing the Central excise duty on petrol by ₹8 per litre and on diesel by ₹6. This will reduce the price of petrol by ₹9.5 per litre and of diesel by ₹7 per litre. It will have revenue

₹200 subsidy per LPG cylinder to 9 cr people

About nine crore beneficiaries of the Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana will get a subsidy of ₹200 per LPG cylinder, FM Nirmala Sitharaman said. She also announced an additional fertiliser subsidy of ₹110 lakh crore to cushion farmers from price rise implications of around ₹1 lakh crore/year for the government," Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman tweeted.

Following the cut, petrol which costs ₹105.41 per litre in Delhi, will cost ₹95.91 from Sunday. Similarly, diesel, which costs ₹96.67 in the national capital, will now cost ₹89.67.

The finance minister, in a series of tweets, also urged states to follow suit to give relief to the common man. "I wish to exhort all state governments, especially the states where reduction wasn't done during the last round (November 2021), to also implement a similar cut and give relief to the common man," tweeted Sitharaman.

States with higher VAT will automatically see bigger reduction in fuel prices. For example, Maharashtra charges 26% VAT plus ₹10.12 per litre additional tax; the state will see a reduction of ₹10.08 in petrol prices.

Welcoming the Centre's decision, the Kerala government on Saturday announced a cut in the state's taxes on petrol and diesel by ₹2.41 and ₹1.36 per litre respectively.

Commenting on the excise duty cut, Prime Minister Narendra Modi tweeted, "It is always people first for us," adding that it will further improve citizens' 'Ease of Living'.

No diplomacy as Jaishankar plays Rahul with hard bat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

IS India's foreign policy getting too "arrogant" or is it just a sign of a new "confidence"? Not a question that could be expected to get prime news space in usual conditions.

But a heated spat in the public sphere between Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar has touched a raw chord, and sparked off a debate that has broken through even amid raging controversies over mandir-masjid and India's economic woes.

Stung by the quick by Rahul's trenchant critique about how "the Indian Foreign Service had completely changed" and been infected by "the deep state", Jaishankar came out all guns blazing on Twitter on Saturday. Yes, the IFS has changed, he retorted. "Yes, they follow the orders of the government. Yes, they counter the arguments of others. No, it's not called arrogance. It's called confidence... (and) defending national interest."

A soul without voice means nothing and what has happened is India's voice has been crushed. So the deep state—the CBI, the ED—is now chewing the state and eating it, much like in Pakistan

Rahul Gandhi

What sparked off such a testy response was partly where Rahul had spoken: at a public forum in London, called the 'Ideas for India' conference. And partly the fact that it revealed, in an all-too-visible space, what could be genuine international opinion, which the Modi government is quite sensitive to.

Amid an omnibus denunciation of the ruling Modi government on all fronts, Rahul said some "European bureaucrats" had told him during private interactions that Indian diplomats now "won't listen to anything — they are arrogant". And that they merely mouth what "orders" they get: "there is no conversation".

Juxtaposed with a remark that "the deep state is now chewing and eating up India, much like what happened in Pakistan", it was bound to stir a hornet's nest.

In another inflammable metaphor, Rahul said the BJP had "spread kerosene all over the country and all it needs is a spark".

FLIPFLOP ON REGIONAL PARTIES

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said the fight against the BJP will be a "group effort", backtracking from his stance at Udaipur where he said "regional parties cannot fight this battle (against BJP)"

19-yr-old girl dies after falling through mall window

MANJU SHETTA @ Bengaluru

IN a freak and tragic incident, a 19-year-old girl died and her male friend of the same age was critically injured after they fell headlong from the second floor of 5th Avenue Mall on Brigade Road when the glass window they were leaning against gave way on Saturday afternoon.

The deceased has been identified as Liya Regina, a resident of Frazer Town, while her friend Chris Peter, who hails from Andhra Pradesh and lives in a PG accommodation in HAL 2nd Stage, is critically injured. They were both students of first year BCom in a private college in Bengaluru.

The police suspect when the glass cracked, the girl who was leaning on it, fell first, and Chris, in a bid to save her, also fell.

Chris, although critical, was able to give a statement to the police, which said the duo had come to MG Road to attend a birthday party of one of their friends. They had plans to reach a pub at around 7pm.

Meanwhile, they decided to visit 5th Avenue Mall at about 12.45 pm. They visited the food court on the ground floor and then went to the third floor to do some window-shopping. Tragedy struck when they were on their way down.

The police officials who rushed to the spot said many theories are investigated, but nothing can be concluded immediately as 5th Avenue Mall had no appropriately installed CCTV cameras inside. A senior police officer who conducted the spot mahazar said no one noticed the students when they were coming downstairs.

The security staff and a passerby, who noticed the girl and the boy lying in a pool of blood, rushed them to National Institute of Mental Health & Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS) where Liya was declared brought dead, while Chris' condition is said to be serious.

Bail for prof in Shivalinga remark case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

A Delhi court on Saturday granted bail to Delhi University Professor Ratan Lal who was arrested on Friday night over his social media comment on claims of a Shivalinga found inside Varanasi's Gyanvapi mosque.

Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Siddhartha Malik observed the police's anxiety to maintain peace and order leading to Lal's arrest could be understood, but "the court has to employ higher standards while considering the need to send a person to custody."

"It is true that the accused did an act which was avoidable... However, the post, though reprehensible, does not indicate an attempt to promote hatred between communities," said the Chief Magistrate.

MI, oh MI! Mumbai help RCB through

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AT 3pm on Saturday, something unique happened. Royal Challengers Bangalore changed their profile picture on Twitter to a blue background with the franchise logo in the foreground. Reason? That blue was RCB's way of showing their full support to Mumbai Indians, who had to beat Delhi Capitals at Wankhede Stadium to help Bangalore qualify for the playoffs. Besides, every member of the RCB squad sat together, watched the game unfold from their team hotel hoping for a Mumbai win.

Each and every RCB fans' and players' prayers were answered as Mumbai won the contest by five wickets to help Bangalore finish fourth on the table and seal the playoffs spot. Bangalore need to thank Jasprit Bumrah, who scalped three wickets to restrict Delhi to 159/7. In reply, Is-han Kishan flourished with a 35-ball 48 on a tricky surface, but it was former Bangalore player Tim David who changed the game on its head with a 11-ball 34, which included two fours and three sixes to see Mumbai home.

With it, Bangalore have reached the playoffs for the third straight time, and will face Lucknow Super Giants in the eliminator on Wednesday. In the last two editions, they failed to get past this stage. Will lady luck shine this season — Ee sala cup namde, anyone? P17

Karnataka an example of Bapu's unrealised dream

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

ALMOST three-fourths of a century after Independence, Mahatma Gandhi's dream of empowering the youth in villages and small towns to avail economic opportunities there remains unrealised — and Karnataka is a striking example of that.

The recently released draft Karnataka Youth Policy points that a whopping 21.73 per cent of the state's 2.1 crore youth in the age group of 15-29 are in Bengaluru. The city with the second highest concentration of youth population is Belagavi with a poor 7 per cent, followed by Ballari (4.92 per cent), Mysuru (4.77 per cent) and Kalaburagi (4.22 per cent). The district with the lowest youth population with just 0.69 per cent is Kodagu.

This is an indicator that youth from across the state are heading to Bengaluru for jobs and livelihood as villages, towns and two-tier cities across the state have been ignored while developing their respective economies to create opportunities for the youth.

Dr R Balasubramanian, Chairman, Karnataka Youth Policy Committee, said this is because there were no measures taken to initiate economic drives outside Bengaluru, which in turn led to skilled and talented people moving towards the economic magnet which is Bengaluru. "There is, therefore, a need to redefine our rural policy. The government should create economic micro-clusters which are rural-centric," he said.

Former director of Gandhi Bhavan, University of Mysore, Prof SShivarajappa, said Mahatma Gandhi dreamed of 'Grama

Swaraj' (focussing on village economies) and strengthening rural India. "If villages flourish, the nation will develop. Youth play a major role in developing villages. Without giving amenities and facilities, including hospitals, schools, providing skill development to make them self-reliant, and extending facilities to encourage them into entrepreneurship, youth will not remain in villages. Unfortunately, the slogans of Gandhiji's dream remain only on paper. The government does not bother to implement or make attempts to implement his dream and vision," he said. P6

Colleges are requesting that the team visit their campuses and train students to take part in plays. Prabhakar Joshi said Rangayana proposes to organise a College Rangotsava in all districts. A certificate course on theatre will be started in association with Gulbarga University, he said

The district SP has requested Joshi to train police personnel in dramatics, which will start soon

Rangayana organised a fortnight-long summer training camp for children, which concluded on May 13. The kids staged dramas before an audience on May 12 and 13

A 15-day cement and fibre sculpture camp was held in 2020, in association with Karnataka Shilpakala Academy. The sculptures are now installed on the premises, adding colour to the theatre activities the play 'Samayada Aata Gala-ta' which is due to be staged.

The team also staged folklore theatre, picking up Bayalaata and Yakshagana, two art forms which usually contain prose, poetry and different forms of dance, and are performed in an open-air theatre. In the past few years, neither of the three Rangayana troupes of Karnataka have staged either Yakshagana or Bayalaata, though the forms were added in parts to some of the plays.

Joshi, who received applause for staging a drama on Purandara Daasa titled 'Siri Purandara', comprising both prose and Daasavani (poetry) from different parts of the state, staged Bayalaata on 'Rama Ravana Yuddha (Battle between Rama and Ravana). The Bayalaata, too, attracted theatre lovers and was staged in many places.

To bring in perfection, the artists were trained in Dhvani Vinyasa, Hejje Kunita, Bamboo Nrutya, Natya Shashtra (Navarasas) etc.

Encouraged by public response, Rangayana Kalaburagi took up the initiative of taking drama to villages. The troupe visited one village in each of the seven jurisdictional districts (Kalaburagi, Bidar, Yadgir, Raichur, Koppal, Ballari and Vijayanagar) and camped for three days. On the first day, the team would identify local artists in the village and encourage them to showcase their talents. In the remaining two days, Rangayana artists performed plays and other cultural activities.

The repertory launched this initiative in a village in Kalaburagi district in the first week of February, and a similar experiment was carried out in a village of Yadgir district in the last week of February. Joshi said this exercise will continue in the coming months, and selected local artists will be invited to participate in workshops and will also be trained.

It's a matter of pride that Rangayana Kalaburagi has gained a place in the heart of all art lovers. I have seen all the plays they have staged. Gulbarga University will extend all help to the repertory

HT Pote, head of Kannada department, Gulbarga University

I have not missed a single activity of Rangayana Kalaburagi in the past two years. The plays staged by the artistes make us want to see the dramas again and again

Venkatesh Mudgal, theatre lover

WHEN SPIRIT OF NATURE & ANIMALS COMES ALIVE

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

RHYTHMIC and upbeat songs fill the air across the villages of South Kodagu during summer. Dressed in bright and colourful attire, villagers dance to the rhythm of nature and mythology while visiting each house – marking the celebration of the unique festival 'Bodu Namme' aka 'Bedu Habbu'.

People dress as brightly coloured tigers in body paint and slush smeared hay, as bamboo horses and elephants... to an outsider, it seems like a mass fancy dress event. However, this unique festival of the indigenous tribes of Kodagu is much more than fun and frolic. It narrates the ancestral connection with the elements of nature and recounts mythological tales.

Following the 'Cauvery Theerthodhava' (gushing of river Cauvery at Talacauvery) festival in October, the 'Bodu Namme' is kindled at the Kunda Hills near Ponnampet in South Kodagu. Rituals are offered at the Ishwara Temple in the village, marking the beginning of the 'Bodu' festive season. Post the first 'Bodu Namme', several other villages in South Kodagu celebrate the festival after the Kodava New Year (in April) and each village narrates its rich folkloric culture. The festival is linked to the folklore of Ishwara and Bhadrakali.

There is a Kodava saying – 'Kundathi Botl Nhendha Kudure, Paranamani Alunja Kudre' – that states that the horse (made of bamboo) that was raised in the Kunda Hills marking the beginning of 'Bodu Namme' will be sacrificed at Paranamani, ending the annual festivity. 'At Paranamani, the festival is about the story of deity Ishwara and demon Basmasura. Three horses and two elephants made of bamboo collected from the sacred grove in the village are worshipped and later sacrificed,' explained Raghu Machaiah, a resident of Paranamani.

Mythological stories connected to each village are unique, he says. "The different costumes in which the villagers dress up during the festival depict the different forms of Lord Ishwara." Another story links 'Bodu Namme' to the story of the deity Bhadrakali. "In the deity's ferocious avatar, no one could calm her down. To appease her, devotees worship her in different attire. Tiger, hay costumes, cross-dressing by men of the village are ways to placate the goddess," narrate Parvathi Chengappa and Kundranda Sannu Pemmaiah of Aimangala village.

Villages in South Kodagu – Chembellur, Aimangala, Parana, Kavadi, Bilugunda, Nalvathoklu, Kutandhi, and Aarji – observe the festival. "Natives here are indigenous and Ishwara worshippers," explained Parvathi.

As was inevitable, modernity touched the tradition of outlandish dressing. Politicians, famous and infamous personalities, film actors, comedians, and mafia kingpins have found their way into the festival of appeasing Goddess Bhadrakali and Lord Ishwara. During the festival, people visit every home across the village to offer prayers and seek blessings. Apart from the fascinating fusion of colours, the festival also stresses the protection of nature with many restrictions, including a ban on cutting trees during the celebrations. "The history of 'Bodu Namme' dates back to ancestral times, and the rituals and culture of this festival have stood the test of time. While it looks exciting, there is a religious aspect to the festival. In an era of rapid urbanisation, the festival unites villagers and speaks of love, trust and harmony," opined Shashi Somaiah, a resident of Madikeri.

What's life without some drama!

Rangayana Kalaburagi brought the arts space alive, and is now on a mission to take dramatics and folk theatre to the masses

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@ Kalaburagi

TAKING the passion for theatre to the masses is no easy task, but Rangayana Kalaburagi has doggedly pursued its goal. This, despite a number of hurdles and controversies, and even the threat of being shifted to another town in Kalyana Karnataka. Now, thanks to the team's efforts, theatre and folk art are a part of Kalaburagi's social milieu, and have caught the public imagination.

Conceptualised and established in 2014, Rangayana Kalaburagi had teething troubles in the first few years. But as 2020 dawned, things changed. Prabhakar Joshi, a graduate from Ninasam and stage expert who assumed charge as Rangayana director in December 2019, formed a team of 15 guest artistes, including a technician. After a few months, full-time artistes and three technicians were selected to take up theatre activities regularly, and a new team came into existence on October 5, 2020.

The Kalaburagi edition of Rangayana, which had restricted itself to inviting drama troupes of other districts to stage plays in Kalaburagi till early 2020, came up with two original dramas – 'Siri Purandara and Trayasta' – by its own artistes. The plays not only caught the attention of theatre lovers of Kalaburagi, but the team creating magic on stage was invited to perform the plays across India, including in Mysuru, Bengaluru, Raichur, Hyderabad and

New Delhi.

No mean task, considering it was a Covid year, but as the first wave waned, the artistes toured other states, following the pandemic protocol.

Impressed by the performances, the Goethe Institute/Max Mueller Bhavan, Bengaluru, asked Rangayana Kalaburagi to translate the drama 'Wie man die Zeit vertreibt' into Kannada, and to stage it in Kalaburagi, Bengaluru and Germany, to be sponsored by the Goethe Institute. This led to

Monkeypox: State ups surveillance in airports

Those with symptoms to be isolated; Virus can spread from contact with bodily fluids such as saliva from coughing

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

WITH Monkeypox cases being reported from nearly 12 countries, the Karnataka government has asked the airports to be vigilant and isolate sick persons travelling from affected countries with symptoms or history of the disease.

An interim advisory informing the disease symptoms and instructions has been sent by the health department officials under the Integrated Disease Surveillance Project (IDSP).

"Any traveller from the risk countries if they present with an otherwise unexplained rash or have travelled to these countries which have reported confirmed or suspected cases in the last 21 days or have come in contact with a person or people with confirmed or suspected Monkeypox should be isolated at designated health facilities," the advisory read.

KNOW THE DISEASE

It is caused by a smallpox-like virus which is from the same family of virus-Orthopoxvirus genus in the family Poxviridae. It was discovered in 1958 when outbreaks of a disease causing a pox were discovered in monkeys held in captivity for research. It was first seen in humans in 1970 in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and it is now endemic in central and west Africa.

The cases that have been reported worldwide are both due to local transmission and also due to travel to African countries. As a proactive approach, the National Centre for Disease Control, MoHFW, has identified several public health actions to be initiated in the event of suspected cases being reported from India.

It has been advised that such patients should be reported to

SYMPTOMS

It causes pustules all over the body. Symptoms appear between 5 and 13 days after infection. It can take up to 21 days to appear. Early symptoms include fever, headache, muscle ache, backache, swollen lymph nodes, chills and exhaustion. Once fever appears, rash tends to erupt first on the face, hands and feet before spreading to other areas. Mouth ulcers are also reported.

Meanwhile speaking to TNSE, Dr Bindumathi PL Senior Consultant - Internal Medicine, Aster CMI Hospital, says that though the virus doesn't spread easily between people and the risk to wider spread is low, World Health Organisation has stated that it can spread from close contact with bodily fluids such as saliva from coughing, close contact with respiratory secretions, skin lesions of an infected person or recently contaminated objects.

Dr Manohar KN, Consultant Internal Medicine Physician, Manipal Hospital, Old Airport Road, says, "Monkeypox as of now has no vaccine. The original first-generation smallpox vaccines are no longer available to the general public. Also, a newer vaccinia based vaccine was approved for the prevention of Monkeypox in 2019 but that is not yet widely available."

GIVING a solid dressing down to BBMP authorities for the civic mess in the city, A Ravindra, a retired additional chief secretary, exposed problems with footpaths, drainage and other civic works in the CV Raman Nagar Assembly segment on Saturday. BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath, who was on city rounds, was the target of Ravindra's lesson on maintaining the area.

Girinath later took to Twitter to appreciate the efforts of the former IAS officer in alerting the Palike about issues facing the city. This triggered an army of Netizens to troll Girinath, saying he should look into problems faced by the common man and reciprocate the same way he did to Ravindra.

One of them told the chief commissioner to look into his Twitter handle where he will find over a lakh suggestions given by Bengalureans that have been ignored by the civic agency.

Girinath inspected the Mahadevapura zone and ordered officials to clear encroachments on footpaths. On Old Madras Road, he noticed a faulty drain and told officials to fix it at the earliest. He inspected A Narayanapura Lake, which will be beautified at Rs 3 crore.

He also visited Yamlur Main Road where 2.9 km of the stretch is being widened with upgraded facilities like better pavements and a cycle track at Rs 7 crore. He inspected the works at Kundalahalli lower bridge, for which Rs 19.50 crore has been allocated.

Of the 27 private properties needed for the project, 22 have been acquired. The service road is being readied and Girinath hoped that the works would be completed in 15 days.

AN eyewitness said the ambulance did not come in time when the girl was lying in a pool of blood and the police team which arrived on the scene in a Hoysala vehicle took the injured to the hospital in their vehicle with help from passers-by. Based on a complaint by Liya's mother, the Cubbon Park police have registered a case of unnatural death and further investigations are on. She has made no allegations in her complaint, a police officer added.

One of the businessmen who runs a clothing shop at the mall said the glass window frame was too old. The building has allegedly not been maintained properly by the builder and supervisor. Also no CCTV cameras are installed in appropriate areas. The police are now gathering details about the safety measures in place at the premises.

Fire expert suggests safety measures

Retired Deputy Director C Basavanna suggests following measures for safety:

- 1 High-rise buildings should have fixed safety grills at the windows to prevent such mishaps.
- 2 Fire department officials should conduct surprise checks at malls and shopping complexes to ensure safety measures are in place and take action against those violating norms.
- 3 Mall managers and supervisors should conduct drills every six months to show how to use stairs and elevators safely.
- 4 Public should be on the left side while getting down using the stairs.
- 5 Mall owners should follow instructions issued by the fire and emergency department without exception.

Similar mishaps earlier

In June 2019, Two persons including a woman died after falling off the second floor of a pub on Church Street. The victims were Pawan, who worked with a leading newspaper, and Vedha, an IT employee. The duo was getting down from the third floor and lost balance and slipped through the window next to the flight of stairs, before falling to their death.

Breast Cancer: Avoiding Chemotherapy

DRASHWINRAJAGOPAL

When Ritu (name changed) got diagnosed with Breast Cancer, she was worried thinking about the toll that chemotherapy would have on her physical and mental health. Her doctor recommended CanAssist Breast, a prognostic test to understand her tumour biology better and to determine whether or not she will benefit from chemotherapy.

CanAssist Breast test is a prognostic and predictive diagnostic test for early-stage breast cancer patients that assess the risk of recurrence. Fortunately, the test classified Ritu at low risk for recurrence and thus her doctor decided to skip chemotherapy for her. She was relieved and even after five years is doing well without any recurrence of the disease.

Many patients like Ritu can avoid over-treatment just by taking the prognostic test to determine the recurrence of breast cancer. We live in the era of precision oncology, with goal to deliver the right cancer treatment to the right patient with the right dose and at the right time. Research shows that breast cancer differs from person to person based on genetic heterogeneity. This molecular subtyping of breast cancer has helped the patients to safely avoid chemotherapy and have the benefit of getting personalised treatment.

The treatment for breast cancer has had a paradigm shift in the past few years. Most of the breast cancers are treatable with good outcomes, if detected early. The advancement in diagnosing the disease has brought a new dimension to not only detecting the cancer early, but in personalising the line of treatment for a greater welfare of the patient and avoid overtreatment.

Being accepted as a heterogeneous disease with various molecular subtypes, breast cancer treatment is no more considered as 'one treatment fits all'. Hence, clinicians agree that chemotherapy is not the only answer to breast cancer for certain subtypes of the disease.

Breast cancer cells that express hormone receptors require estrogen or progesterone to grow, so they tend to express these hormones. Hormone receptor-posi-itive breast cancer subtype accounts for 70-80 percent of all cases of breast cancer diagnosed.

In early-stage hormone-positive, HER2/ neu negative breast cancer patients, prognostic tests are an essential part of treatment decision making. The vast amounts of data gathered from thousands of patients have shown that only 15% of patients who are hormone positive, HER2/ neu negative breast cancer patients will benefit from chemotherapy. A vast majority of patients are therefore able to avoid high costs, chemotherapy side-effects such as hair loss, general weakness and lower immunity, and have better quality life.

Personalised treatment for breast cancer patients who are still in early stages is increasingly prevalent, as oncologists strive not to over-treat them with unnecessary chemotherapy.

In different parts of the world, doctors use prognostic tests to determine the best course of treatment for their patients. These tests form the basis of determining the risk of recurrence of certain cancers based on the specific genes or biomarkers involved.

While most of the prognostic tests have been developed on western patient populations (from the US and Europe) and have not been validated on Indian patients, CanAssist Breast is the only prognostic test that has been developed and validated on Indian breast cancer patients.

To calculate the risk of recurrence of cancer, CanAssist Breast analyses five critical protein biomarkers along with three clinical parameters (tumour size, tumour grade, and node status) from the patient's tumour. Clinicians can gain insight into a patient's tumour biology by using this test. By providing a risk score associated with the patient's relapse probability, the test classifies patients into "Low-risk" and "High-risk" groups for cancer recurrence. Patients who score under 15.5 are considered low-risk patients and they can safely avoid chemotherapy and thus can avoid all the harmful effects associated with aggressive chemotherapy.

Recent cancer treatment advances have had a tremendous impact on both patients and their families. The goal of oncology treatment is to achieve disease-free survival without compromising on the overall wellbeing. Precision oncology tailors therapy to each individual patient based on the unique biology of cancer, while ensuring the highest long-term quality of life for the cancer survivors.

CM returns without meeting Shah

State political circles abuzz as Bommai was directed to talk to Arun Singh instead

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who was "urgently" summoned to New Delhi by the BJP high command, has returned without getting an audience from Union Home Minister Amit Shah. This has given rise to various speculations. The CM was instead directed to speak to BJP Karnataka in-charge Arun Singh.

Though the party cited Shah's participation in BJP national office bearers meeting and that he has left for Arunachal Pradesh as the reasons for his inability to meet Bommai, reports that the home minister was very much in New Delhi. This is Bommai's second visit to Delhi in the last ten days.

"I had plans to meet Amit Shah. Due to his urgent engagement, I could talk to him over the phone last night. I discussed in detail and shared with him the list of probable candidates for Rajya Sabha seats from the state and for the Legislative Council polls", Bommai maintained.

"I met Arun Singh as instructed by Shah and we discussed the Legislative Council and Rajya Sabha elections. I provided details of the list submitted."

Since May 24 is the deadline for filing nominations for Council polls, the decisions have to be taken urgently, he told reporters in New Delhi.

"May 31 is the last day for filing nominations for Rajya Sabha elections. Arun Singh has been apprised of discussions held at the recent State Core Committee meeting. He has said that he would take a decision at the earliest," Bommai said.

The Cabinet expansion did not come up for discussion as the party top brass is focussed on elections to BBMP and local bodies in the backdrop of Supreme Court's order in this regard, he said. Sources within the BJP said though the BJP Core Committee had already sent the list of probables for MLC and RS polls, the high command had called him to discuss some changes.

Bommai also met Union Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi at the latter's official residence in Delhi which has almost been a norm during his every visit to the national capital.

CONGRESS leaders DK Shivakumar and Siddaramaiah met AICC general secretary and Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala in New Delhi on Saturday to finalise the party candidates for the Rajya Sabha and MLC polls.

"We have discussed the candidates for the MLC seats. Those who have served the party for a long time and are loyal will be nominated. Names of both youths and veterans have come up for discussion," Siddaramaiah told reporters.

Asked about the RS polls, he clarified that AICC president Sonia Gandhi will take a final call in this regard. According to sources, Surjewala asked both the leaders to select two names, as the party can win two MLC seats, for clearance from the high command. It was also discussed whether incumbent Jairam Ramesh, who had faced some opposition from several leaders from the state, should be renominated for the lone RS seat the party can win from Karnataka out of four going for the polls, sources said.

The names of S R Patil from the Veerashaiva Lingayat community, who had sacrificed his MLC seat from Vijayapura-Bagalkot to Sunil Gouda Patil, younger brother of KPCC campaign committee chairman M B Patil, and former minister M R Seetharam, are doing the rounds for the MLC nominations. But there might be surprise in the selection of MLC candidates, a source said.

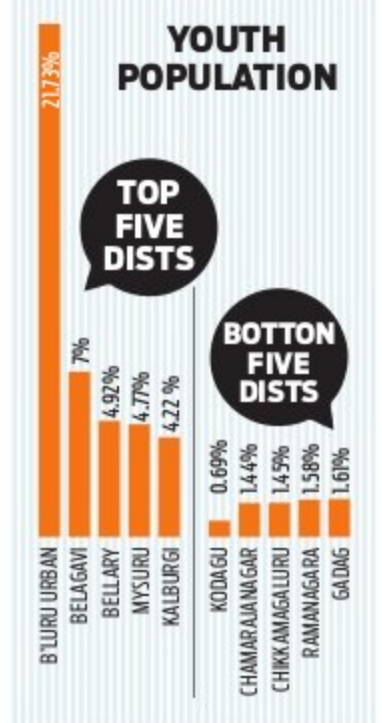

'Public school concept to lay foundation'

DR CN Ashwath Narayan, Minister of Higher Education, IT/BT/S&T and Skill Development, Entrepreneurship and Livelihood, however, claimed that they are taking all the measures to strengthen the villages economically. He said they have started with the public school concept at panchayat level to lay a strong foundation from primary education itself.

In higher classes, along with the academic curriculum, the students are being given vocational training from a young age and the students can make use of it to lay the foundation for a future career in the villages itself.

"The pandemic has taught us that the work-from-home concept can be a successful model in a few sectors including IT. The concept of coming to the office has been removed from several workplaces. If we provide better connectivity, youths can stay at their places," he added.

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

AS the 2023 Assembly polls are approaching fast, factionalism within Congress has come to the fore again with supporters of KPCC president D K Shivakumar and Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah taking positions to get party tickets.

In Magadi, four-time MLA HC Balakrishna, who was disillusioned after being denied a cabinet berth in any of the alliance governments in which JDS was involved, joined Congress reposing faith in Shivakumar.

But now with former minister H M Revanna, a Kuruba leader and an advisor to Siddaramaiah, seriously thinking of contesting from Magadi, Balakrishna has written a letter against Revanna to Shivakumar.

What has been irritating Balakrishna is that Revanna openly heaped praises on JDS MLA A Manjunath, who is also close to Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan. "If you give Revanna a ticket, I will work in his favour," Balakrishna wrote ironically to Shivakumar. Revanna, who had lost polls in Magadi and Channarayana in the 2018 bypolls, now wishes to go back to Magadi, sources said. But the ticket is likely to be given to Balakrishna. Revanna, however, has been giving some jitters to the party as Magadi is his 'home turf' for several years, they said.

At Kalaghatagi in Dharwad district, former minister

Santhosh Lad, a staunch supporter of Siddaramaiah, is facing a challenge from former MLC Nagaraj Chebbi, who identifies himself with Belagavi Rural MLA Laxmi R Hebalkar. Chebbi has already started campaigning with the blessings of Shivakumar as Lad was not active in the Assembly segment for sometime. Lad may be asked to switch to the Hospet seat, a source informed.

At Sira, Tiptur, Tumakuru City in Tumakuru district as well, ticket aspirants identified with Shivakumar and Siddaramaiah have started lobbying. Those who miss out on a Congress ticket could join JDS, a source said.

It is interesting to see how the party high command will placate disillusioned leaders, as some will not get party tickets. The party has conducted many internal surveys by various agencies and commissioned by different leaders within Congress.

'We are only changing what was false in textbooks'

W

ITH the academic year beginning in Karnataka, a row has broken out over textbooks for children studying in state government-affiliated schools. Opposition leaders allege 'saffronisation' of textbooks, removal of portions on some personalities, including Narayana Guru, and adding RSS founder KB Hedgewar's speech in Class X textbook. But the ruling BJP is defending its decision. In an interview with The New Sunday Express, Textbook Review Committee Chairman Rohith Chakrathirtha and development educationist Prof Niranjanaradhya talk to Ashwini M Sripad on this boiling issue. Excerpts:

How important is it to revise textbooks? Does it mean what was being taught till now was wrong?

Rohith Chakrathirtha

Rohith Chakrathirtha: There is a need to revise textbooks as there were many lies included in textbooks and it happened when Baraguru Ramachandrapa was the head of the textbook committee in 2017. Prior to that there was balanced content.

Prof Niranjanaradhya: It is important to revise textbooks periodically to update knowledge and to bring in new perspectives in the construction of knowledge. Nevertheless, it should be based on a normative framework reflecting the values embodied in the Constitution and the framework provided by experts who have in-depth knowledge on the subject through scientific research based on facts and evidence. The quality of education in the state is deteriorating in the name of revision to meet the ulterior motives of a political ideology of a party. This is nothing but backward looking, muddled and peddling of myths. This is a breach of democratic procedure and methodology needed for any revision process.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

'Changes should not be to promote political ideology'

Why is there an effort to selectively remove parts that are linked to certain personalities? Doesn't that amount to conditioning the minds of youngsters towards a certain ideology?

RC: Critics are pointing to certain ideological issues and removal of write-ups by a few personalities with a certain ideology. Does it mean that till now, they were trying to induce a particular ideology in young minds? We are not branding it as left or right and there cannot be such classifications in textbooks. We were focusing on certain issues and trying to make children learn new things, including usage of language. We were also looking for content with fresh ideas. If that criterion was met, we included the content in the textbook, otherwise we removed it.

NA: You are right. Not just conditioning the minds of young children, they also think it is the best time to start poisoning the minds of children with false and communal interpretation of history to meet their political agenda.

Doesn't this 'correctional' approach in textbook content compromise the concept of education?

RC: We have not done anything that compromises the quality of education. We are looking at everything through content. Content is more important than caste, religion, region or gender. In 2014, revised textbooks were introduced and within months, the then state government formed a committee, led by Baraguru Ramachandrapa. On an average, seven lessons per textbook were changed and it was done to give prominence to one particular caste and gender. It affected the quality of textbooks. We are only correcting those mistakes.

NA: Yes, very much. Education should help children think creatively, critically and without any bias. To enable this, we need to choose content based on facts and scientific outlook. Indoctrination of a narrow and sectarian type of knowledge through a correctional approach dwarfs children's thinking and understanding.

What was found exaggerated about Tipu Sultan that had to be removed from textbooks?

RC: It is not about exaggeration. We have removed what we found irrelevant. For example, in a lesson on war, there were parts about social reforms and we got rid of them. In some cases, there were three to four pages of text which was not required. We have reduced the number of pages too. In fact, we have retained the Tiger of Mysuru title given to Tipu Sultan.

NA: When you see things from a communal and religious lens, you find anything and everything exaggerated. We need to see things from the context of one's contribution and sacrifice in the course of the freedom struggle to liberate India from colonial servitude.

Don't you foresee the threat of textbooks being frequently revised based on the political ideology of the party that is in power? Will that not confuse students?

RC: Just because it is going to create confusion, we cannot tell lies to the younger generation. We are making an attempt to replace lies and blunders with correct versions. We need to give historical evidence for every line we include in textbooks. We even invited Baraguru Ramachandrapa to have a debate with us and asked him to give evidence on the lessons included. But he has not yet accepted the offer so far.

NA: It makes textbooks manifestos of political parties. An ideology of a particular type with a myopic political agenda prevails over the larger values embodied in the Constitution and makes it redundant. The worst affected in the process are children.

Saffronisation of textbooks must not happen: BJP MLC

Vishwanath

Mysuru: Coming down heavily on the school textbook review committee for allegedly dropping lessons on social reformer Narayan Guru, freedom fighter Bhagat Singh and others, BJP MLC A H Vishwanath said saffronisation of textbooks must not happen. Speaking to reporters here on Saturday, Vishwanath, who had served as education minister, said, "Textbooks should not be based on political ideology. By doing so, we are ruining the education system. This is what happens when the textbook review committee expert is headed by someone who is not an from the field of education," said Vishwanath taking a jibe at the committee head Rohith Chakrathirtha. He said the syllabus in textbooks comes under the national curriculum framework and one must not act against it. "None of the governments in the past had done this before," he said. He also took a jibe at former chief minister B S Yediyurappa's son and BJP state vice-president B Y Vijayendra amidst speculation that the latter will be given a cabinet berth. "Will Vijayendra be able to bring better change if he is given a place in the cabinet?" he asked. ENS

Devotees at Chamundi Hills to get packaged coconut water as prasada

B K LAKSHMIKANTHA @Mysuru

IF everything goes as per the plan, the devotees of Sri Chamundeshwari Temple atop Chamundi Hills in Mysuru will soon get packaged coconut water as holy prasada from the cocoons which they offer to the deity. The temple authorities are in talks with the National Institute of Food Technology, Entrepreneurship and Management - Thanjavur (NIFTEM - T) to set up its coconut water collection, filtration and packaging unit at temple premises.

The coconut water unit is an automatic device equipped with manual coconut breaking assembly, continuous filtration-cum-non-thermal UV -C sterilisation system, bulk chilling tanks and automatic cup filling unit.

The temple which is one of the highest-revenue grossing Muzrai temples in the state is visited by lakhs of devotees every year. As most devotees break coconuts outside the temple in a designated place to offer their prayers to the deity where the fresh coconut water is getting wasted, the temple authorities have decided to have the unit at its premises.

NIFTEM - T scientist Anand M confirmed to 'TNIE' that discussions are on to install the unit at the Chamundeshwari Temple.

"We have already installed a unit at Punnainallur Mariamman Temple at Thanjavur. The cost of the unit is around Rs 7 lakh. The water which is purified can be filled in cups and packaged to distribute it to the devotees as prasadam. This technology will save the coconut water from being wasted and can be served to devotees," he said.

No 'nale banni', release flood aid immediately: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday held a video conference with the Deputy Commissioners, Zilla Panchayat CEOs and top officials of various departments to take stock of the situation after the recent rain fury across the state.

He instructed that the district in-charge secretaries, DCs, Assistant Commissioners and Agriculture Officers must visit the rain-affected areas in the next two-three days and submit a report to Chief Secretary Ravi Kumar in 72 hours.

He told them that officials of the revenue, RDPR and minor irrigation departments should clear files related to flood relief without any delay and the compensation should be released immediately according to State Disaster Response Force (SDRF) guidelines for houses damaged due to heavy rains. "No officials should give the 'nale banni' excuse. Crop loss survey reports should be diligently submitted without any delay," he stressed.

To ensure that emergency work is not hampered, no leaves should be granted for officers for the next 15 days and said that Panchayat Development Officers should remain in their places and inspect works.

"Officials of the agriculture,

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai holds a video conference with DCs and ZP CEOs on the rain fury in the state horticulture and revenue departments should conduct joint surveys of crop losses and damage to houses. Care centres should be opened for flood-affected people with facilities for health check-ups," he said and added that Rs 728 crore is available with the DCs to be utilised wherever necessary. Services of the PWD and Panchayat Raj engineers for survey works should be used.

As a precautionary measure, residents living in low-lying areas should be informed well in advance if excess water is released from any reservoirs.

The government has announced that precautionary measures should be taken in Kodagu, Dakshina Kannada, Udupi and Uttara Kannada districts where there are chances of landslides.

Bommai has issued instructions to raise two additional companies of SDRF.

KCR predicts something sensational after meet with Kejriwal, Akhilesh

Visits govt school, mohalla clinic in Delhi; Discusses fallout of UP polls with SP leader

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hyderabad

CHIEF Minister K Chandrashekar Rao has declared that something 'sensational' was going to happen in the country, and that people would certainly witness it happening in the near future.

Ending speculations about his visit to New Delhi, he has clarified saying that the discussions with former UP CM Akhilesh Yadav and Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal on Saturday was all about politics, which was natural, as they were all politicians.

He has spent two hours with Yadav, discussing the fallout of the UP Assembly elections, possibilities for an alternative alliance, and the role of regional parties in the national politics.

He was given a tour of Sarvodaya Government School at Motibagh in Delhi, escorted by none other than Arvind Kejriwal and Deputy CM Manish Sisodia. A video on the facilities, infrastructure and teaching methods followed in the state, was shown to Rao. Rao felt that it was the first time that he has seen government schools being developed in such an efficient way, and expressed that public school education in Delhi has certainly become a role model for the entire nation.

He, however, had reservations about the National Education Policy (NEP) being pushed for execution across the country by the Centre. "A new education policy is fine, but one person formulating something and asking everyone else to implement it is not right. Debates, discussions and negotiations are essential in a democracy. A one-sided approach to anything will not help in achieving the desired results," he said. Rao also visited mohalla clinic.

Rao would be leaving to Chandigarh on Sunday afternoon, to meet the family members of 600 farmers who died in the protests against the three farm bills in the year-long farmers' agitation in New Delhi. He would be accompanied by Kejriwal and Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann.

No action on harassment complaint, student takes off from aviation school

ENS @T Puram

THE alleged inaction by the police and the institute's stand on her sexual harassment complaint against an instructor prompted an aviation academy trainee to go incommunicado after classes on Friday. Following a missing persons complaint filed by the relatives, the police launched a search for the 29-year-old student of Rajiv Gandhi Aviation Academy, Thiruvananthapuram, and tracked her down in Kanyakumari on Saturday.

She had gone missing since 4.30pm on Friday after attending classes in the institute. When she did not reach her hostel, her relatives filed a complaint with the police. The police tracked her mobile phone tower location and found her in Kanyakumari in the morning. The trainee had filed a complaint against chief flying instructor Rajendran alleging that he tried to sexually exploit her during a training session in January. The police, who received the woman's complaint in March, registered a case against Rajendran. Rajendran could not be arrested as he was able to secure anticipatory bail from the Kerala High Court.

The Internal Complaints Committee of the institute too had claimed that there was no truth in her complaint. Following this, the girl had been under mental duress. "We could not arrest the instructor as he secured anticipatory bail till May 31. We are waiting till then and will take him into custody," said police.

NINE people of a marriage party were killed when the multi-utility vehicle they were travelling in crashed into a tree and turned turtle on the outskirts of Dharwad early Saturday morning. While seven people died on the spot, two others succumbed to their injuries in a hospital.

Of the nine dead, eight belonged to one family and were residing in and around Benkanatti.

The accident happened when the driver lost control trying to overtake another vehicle on Mansur-Benkanatti Road near Nigadi.

The deceased have been identified as Ananya (14), Harsha (13), Shilpa (34), Nelavva (43), Madushree (20), Maheshwarayya (11), Chennavva, (45), Manushree, (16) and Shambulingayya (44). Channavva and Manushree died at the hospital.

The injured — Aradhya Huttamallanavar (5), Akanksha Huttamallanavar (11), Sagar Dasankoppa (12), Muttu Marigoudar and Nirmala Dasankoppa (45) — are being treated at various hospitals. Some injured have also been admitted to KIMS Hospital in Hubballi.

It is said 20 people were travelling when the accident occurred. They were heading to Benkanatti after attending a marriage function in Mansur village.

The marriage was earlier planned in front of groom Manjunath Dasankoppa's residence in Benkanatti, but due to heavy rain, the family members thought it would be difficult to perform religious rituals and shifted the venue.

Death of beloved grandson leaves family shattered

MALLIKARJUN HIREMATH @Dharwad

THIRTEEN-year-old Harsha Angadi had two ambitions in life — to become a civil servant and take care of his grandmother. But destiny had something else in store for him. Harsha was among the nine people who died in the Dharwad accident. Harsha was a Class 7 student in Nigadi government school.

A native of Mangundi, Harsha was staying with his grandmother Kusumavathi, who is in her late 60s, at Nigadi.

On hearing the devastating news, Kusumavathi fainted and was rushed to a private hospital. "Harsha was told to stay back in Mangundi during the Covid lockdown. However, his love towards his grandmother pulled him to Nigadi. He left his parents to stay with his grandmother. He was very studious," Shivanand, the boy's relative, told TNSE. "If someone gave him money, he used to save it for his grandmother. His parents decided to shift him to city for better education... but he never agreed... he wanted to be with his grandmother," said a neighbour.

HUNGER GAMES: WORLD FOOD CRISIS & G7 HYPOCRISY

LAST week India banned the export of wheat. Almost predictably rich nations, branded as G7, “expressed disappointment” and condemned the decision. The response was steeped in factual ignorance, contextual illiteracy and political hypocrisy of the kind which has led to the aggravation of the global food crisis.

Facts are eloquent messengers. India runs not one but two of the world’s largest food security programmes. The National Food Security Act, a justiciable law, obliges the government to make available subsidised food grains to 800 million people—the math tells you that is more than the combined population of the G7 countries. India also supplies free food grains to 800 million under the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana. In effect, it is obliged to provide grains to 800 million persons twice (that is 1.6 billion) every month. What exactly is/was the expectation of the G7 countries — that it must forsake its own?

India certainly doesn’t own the copyright on export bans. And the hypocrisy of G7 is best illustrated by an episode from recent history. In 2021, as the virus raged across the world and countries scrambled for vaccines, the US under the ‘America First’ policy banned export of not just vaccines but also raw materials required for their production. The EU was not far behind in denying countries access to vaccines. Worse, it didn’t matter that doses were wasted. Indeed, in March 2022, the US’ Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimated the national rate of wastage and concluded that as of February 2022, around 9.85 per cent of the 687 million doses of vaccines delivered — which would be 65 million doses — were wasted. Compute the cost and the cost of denial for effect.

The ban on vaccines is only one of the chapters in the book on convenient leverage of the phrase ‘national interest’. There are and have been many and have led to historical consequences. In December 1975, the US enacted the Energy Policy and Conservation Act banning export of crude oil. The ban was in place for 40 years — despite increased output and even during price spikes — and was lifted only in December 2015.

The cause of the food crisis and the rising inflation has been pinned on the lapel of Vladimir Putin and Russia’s invasion of Ukraine. It is true that Russia and Ukraine are dominant players in the global food grains bazaar. But, more critical is the disruption (and pricing chaos) in energy supplies crucial for industrial scale agriculture, for transport and for inputs such as fertilisers. It is arguable that the leverage which Russia has over Europe could have been limited — if not averted — had the US allowed exports earlier, not shut the pipeline to Canada and cracked down on fracking. Russia annexed Crimea in 2014 and Europe’s energy vulnerability was apparent. Yet, neither the EU nor the US moved to shift sourcing — imagine a continent dependent on one source for over 40 per cent of its energy.

The consequence of unattended issues is haunting the world. It is true that prices of food grains have shot up. As per World Bank as of May 2022, the Agricultural Price Index is up 41 per cent compared to January 2021. Maize and wheat prices are 54 per cent and 60 per cent higher compared to January 2021. But pinning the blame on India’s ban on wheat exports is simply an exhibition of mindless lazy rhetoric.

Public policy decisions rest on context. India presented the circumstance — the extent of availability, the impact of the heat wave and potential prospects of the next crop. Mind you that India’s stance accommodated the need to help the distressed — Sri Lanka, Myanmar and Afghanistan. While India is the second largest producer of wheat, it is not even on the list of top ten exporters. The situation though is dire. Hunger Games is at play in real life. Every country is struggling with both inflation and the crisis of availability. This week UN Secretary General Antonio Guterres declared that hunger levels around the world are at “a new high” and revealed that the number of “severely food insecure people had doubled in just two years — from 135 million pre-pandemic to 276 million”.

The UN, as this column pointed out earlier, crippled by the archaic structure, has repeatedly failed to stop wars. The least it can do is to seize the humanitarian cause — build a coalition to enable evacuation of stocks lying in war-torn Ukraine, design/create a multilateral mechanism to improve availability of inputs and fix the comatose world food programme to deliver to the poorest by accessing funding from IMF/World Bank. The odds of success, given its track record, are admittedly low.

Finally, it would be useful for those in the G7 grouping to reflect on the humongous wastage of food in high-income countries impacting availability and affordability. The US EPA, citing UN-FAO data, states that globally nearly a billion tonnes of food is lost or wasted annually — just in the US, “40 per cent of food is lost or wasted, annually costing an estimated $218 billion” — a figure over five times India’s food subsidy for 2021-22. The situation in the EU or UK is not very different. The UNEP estimates that UK households “waste an estimated 6.7 million tonnes of food every year, around one-third of the 21.7 million tonnes purchased”.

Those lamenting in chorus may well start showing up and contribute more than just outrage to mitigate the misery of people around the world.

I hope that my journey in life inspires Australians to reach for the stars. I want Australia to continue to be a country that no matter where you live, who you worship, who you love or what your last name is, that places no restrictions on your journey in life

The end will be through diplomacy.... Discussions between Ukraine and Russia will decidedly take place. Under what format I don't know — with intermediaries, without them, in a broader group, at presidential level.

While there may not be time to obtain fertiliser for Yala (May-August) season, steps are being taken to ensure adequate stocks for Maha (September-March) season. I sincerely urge everyone to accept the gravity of the situation.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO AMITBHAI

POINT OF VIEW
T J S GEORGE

NARENDRA Modi is undoubtedly the most PR conscious Prime Minister in Indian history. Extensive use of TV channels, Twitter and Facebook has always been part of his routine. Doctored images presenting him in glamorous ways have been common. A story once appeared in the papers saying that he saved 15,000 Gujarati pilgrims stranded in Uttarakhand. Another invented story was that Modi was declared incorruptible by WikiLeaks founder.

Now we have a whole new book. The title itself tells the story: ‘Modi@20: Dreams Meeting Delivery’. If anybody missed the point, an explanatory message will make amends. It says: “Dreams are meant to be turned into reality. Modi showed this to the world.”

The book is a PR masterpiece. It contains tributes to the Prime Minister from highly credible people. Clearly no one wanted to be counted out when such an open platform was laid bare. Even PV Sindhu figures in the list. She is a wise girl who knows what is good for badminton.

Amit Shah’s dreams definitely met delivery. He has a gospel to spread and he loses no opportunity to spread it. He has described the Modi book as the Gita for people in politics. That is the ultimate tribute a man can give another man. For the wisdom that permeates every page of the Bhagavad Gita is unparalleled.

But whether Amitbhai reads the Gita with an open mind is unclear. What does he make of a verse like: “Better indeed than wisdom is meditation. Than meditation, renunciation is the fruit of action; on renunciation follows peace.” Does he comprehend the implications of: “The same am I to all beings. There is none hateful to me, nor dear. Those verily who worship me with devotion, they are in me, and I also in them.”

If he understood what these seemingly simple words convey, he would be a better Home Minister, indeed a better human being. But it seems he understands only what is good for him. Projecting Narendra Modi as a saviour of the country is uppermost in this list. So he said that India had no defence policy before Modi came. It was modesty that prevented him from adding that India had no foreign policy, no agriculture policy, no industrial policy, no educational/cultural policy before Modi. Our problem with hero-promoters is that they do not understand that over-promotion has the opposite effect.

Politics has contaminated our culture and traditions. The superficial has gained precedence over the substantial. The show has become more important than the substance. What we see is a wholesale change of mentality. Consider the priority put forward by Adesh Gupta, a BJP stalwart. He wants some of Delhi’s historic streets to be re-named. Tughlak Road, Akbar Road, Aurangzeb Lane, Humayun Road and Shahjahan Road must be re-named, he says. If they are renamed, will Indian history be rid of the Mughal period?

That question has a relevance that goes beyond the questioner: The Sangh

Politics has contaminated our culture and traditions. The superficial has gained precedence over the substantial. The show has become more important than the substance

Parivar and the Chinmaya mission recently introduced revised history textbooks for classes 6 to 8. Vikram Sampath welcomed this with the statement: “Our history will be told in the way we want, finally.” Should history be told the way we want it, or the way it happened? And Sampath is not even a politician.

This is the outcome of fringe Hindutva groups getting active. Sri Ram Sena wants a ban on loudspeakers in mosques. Such a ban would indeed be welcome because loudspeakers in mosques are as much a nuisance as loudspeakers in churches and temples. But Sri Ram Sena doesn’t seem bothered about the nuisance generated by churches and temples.

Violence over hijab spread across several districts in Karnataka, prompting a police officer to express fears over “competitive communalism” growing across the state. Such fears have given rise to citizens’ initiatives as well. An organisation called Campaign Against Hate Speech recently pointed out how “television was mainstreaming the Hindutva fringe into people’s drawing rooms every day.” Ironically, some BJP thinkers are worried about this. If fringe leaders get influence in society, they say, “they can push the party to take more extreme positions, failing which the fringe could turn against the party too.”

What a travesty! The fringe turning against the fringe. The reality is that religious emotions are easy to inflame. A situation where a violent religious fringe can force the non-violent sections to join them could put an end to peace in a multi-religious nation. Respecting one another is the only way for such a nation to survive. Short-sighted initiatives to force one’s way will only produce contrary results. The problem is that religiosity usually suppresses common sense.

MODI’S HAT-TRICK IN 2024 LINKED TO DISAFFECTION DRIVEN DEFECTIONS

EVERY movement has its master, mission and momentum. Like a huge honey pot, it attracts worker bees from all over as its velocity expands exponentially.

The BJP is one such enterprise that has mastered India through mighty maestro Modi, who is both its idea and ideology without equal. His magnetism, and loyal lieutenant Amit Shah’s determination, has made BJP the world’s largest party with over 160 million members. But Modi’s ardent admirers are baffled by his party’s obsession with political acquisitions and mergers. Last week began Round Three of inviting to its political feast many Congress leaders who have become irrelevant in their own party. Saffron old timers are visibly disturbed about the dogma dilution. But for astute BJP masterminds, the new arrivals are game changers. For example, former Punjab Congress chief Sunil Jakhar, son of Balram Jakhar, a formidable Congress Jat leader, was welcomed into the BJP. In Punjab, the party is reeling under leadership bankruptcy. Its luminaries aren’t able to swallow the ignominious defeat by non-Sikh outsider Arvind Kejriwal who created AAP from nowhere and won 92 seats. Its rise in Delhi and now in Punjab has rattled the BJP national leadership.

The epiphany that BJP lacks charismatic and effective regional leaders, barring in few states like Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh, has come at a cost. It inherited a comprehensively committed RSS cadre. But Modi, soon after being declared the PM candidate in 2014, launched Round One of Operation Mergers and Acquisitions because BJP’s clout was confined to a few states. Like a gracious host, he gave seats at his table to many former chief ministers, Union ministers, important caste leaders, influencers from civil society and retired babus with transferable loyalties. Since then winnability, not unshakable ideological commitment, is the essential qualification to enter the BJP’s exalted echelons.

With Modi being BJP’s life force and the rest being mere implementers and messengers who promote and amplify his vision and mission, the party needs to expand its pre-eminence. And hey presto! Note the influx of ideologically incompatible itinerants flocking to the shelter of the strongman’s shadow. There is, however, a strict screening process. All migratory birds must be socially relevant, economically affluent, but appeal limited to their own geographical boundaries. And finally, they should be able to attract dynamic defectors from their old organisations and become the glue binding BJP originals and new converts. This experiment succeeded superbly in Assam where the BJP poached Himanta Biswa Sarma, a firebrand Congress leader, just before the 2016 election. Not only was Sarma resourceful but well-networked with smaller North Eastern parties. He was tasked with winning them over, since the North East is strategically important to both the RSS and the BJP. He was given an important portfolio and ensured the BJP’s win in most of the NE states ridden with extremist and religious fundamentalists. He was rewarded with the post of the Chief Minister by replacing Hindutva henchman Sarbananda Sonowal.

During the past five years, former Congress leaders have got prominent posts including the top position in many states. Karnataka CM Basavraj Bommai lacks Sangh pedigree. An engineer by profession, the son of former CM SR Bommai had no Sangh connections. Bommai started his career with the Janata Dal and joined the BJP in 2008. Arunachal Pradesh CM Pema Khandu, a former Congressman, donned the saffron robe in 2016. Similarly, Manipur’s Biren Singh started political life in the Congress and joined the BJP after Modi became the PM. Surprisingly, the BJP replaced one of its youngest chief ministers Biplob Deb of Tripura with 69-year-old former Congress leader Manik Saha who defected in 2016. Deb was a staunch RSS worker and was enforcing its agenda with passion.

According to an ADR study, from 2014 till 2021, 35 per cent of 500 candidates who re-contested Lok Sabha or state elections were turncoats in the BJP. Researchers found that almost every fourth BJP MP or MLA has Congress DNA. In some states, half the number of ministers was once the BJP’s harshest critics.

The ongoing trend of adding defectors is a continuation of previous exercises to augment the BJP’s influence in states where it must win more Lok Sabha seats. It must retain Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh, which are going to the polls before the 2024 general election. It has already achieved saturation in UP, Rajasthan, Gujarat, Karnataka, Chhattisgarh, Bihar, Haryana, Delhi, Karnataka, Maharashtra and MP by winning almost 100 per cent of Lok Sabha seats. Power arithmetic mandates compensation for any loss the BJP may suffer in other states. Even in Opposition-ruled West Bengal and Odisha, the BJP made massive inroads in 2019. But the party is not hopeful of repeating its performance. According to the Opposition math, it may lose a total of 75-100 seats in Maharashtra, Gujarat, Rajasthan, MP, Assam, Bengal, Haryana, Chhattisgarh, Bihar, Karnataka and Jharkhand.

Hence, the BJP is confronted with a big question: from where will it get those extra seats to retain its Lok Sabha majority? Of course, it expects a third Modi Wave in 2024, like in 2019 when it crossed the 300 mark. It expects to win all the 80 seats again in UP and retain all MPs in Gujarat and in other saffron states. But it would be hard pressed to repeat its performance in Odisha and Bengal. In Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Andhra Pradesh which account for over 100 MPs, the BJP can’t grab more than half a dozen seats. Hence, the emphasis is to break ruling regional outfits in Telangana, Tamil Nadu and Kerala. Over the next few months, the BJP is likely to target the prominent TRS and YSR Congress netas in Telangana and Andhra, AIADMK leaders in Tamil Nadu and JD(S) jockeys in Karnataka. It has shortlisted some prominent and vulnerable leaders of the NCP and the Congress in Maharashtra since the Devendra Fadnis experiment hasn’t yielded dividends. In Rajasthan, it is hoping to win over Sachin Pilot since there is no saffron leader to ensure victory. In Chhattisgarh, the BJP has no effective alternative to Raman Singh. It is wooing health minister TS Singhdeo who is peeved over losing the CM chair to Bhupesh Baghel. BJP’s political cartographers are consolidating 80 per cent of the population, leaving out the Muslims and Christians.

It is apparent that the saffron geographical expansion is primarily due to the shrinking of the Congress under the Gandhi. Armed with enormous powers to induce and inveigle, if Modi-Shah’s poaching drive continues unabated, the BJP will be India’s new rainbow smoothie with undiluted saffron syrup at the top. It will be dominated by ex-Congressmen and women but commanded by hardcore Hindutva right wing leaders. Disaffection-driven defections will determine a dramatic devolution of the Congress’ ‘One Party, One Family’ formula and give way to ‘One multi-colour Party, One Saffron Leader’.

Daring Nikhat clinches gold

Congrats to daring Nikhat Zareen for dashing her way to become the Women’s World Boxing Champion (in the 52-kg category). Wishes goes to the other brave girls — Manisha Maun (57 kg category) and Parveen Hooda (63 kg) — for winning bronze medals. The 3 aces rather the 3 queens of boxing are keeping Olympics hopes high for India. Nikhat is the 5th Indian woman boxer to become the world Champion (after: Mary Com (record 6 times), Sarita Devi, Jenny R. L. and Lekha KC). Her coach Chiranjeevi too deserves all laurels.

Maintain height of power lines

With reference to Cow, elephant electrocuted to death in Gudalur forest range (May 21), elephants and other animals continue to fall prey to low-running power lines. This tragic incident underlines the need to ensure that power lines are at a height of six metres from the ground in all places in conformity with the electricity rules. Burying power lines in the usual path of elephants or converting bare power lines to insulated cables are other options that could be considered by Tangedco. Jumbos also die when they come into contact with live wire-fences around crop fields. This also has to be stopped.

Elderly concession scrapped

Referring to the report, Senior citizen concession will not be resumed: Vaishnav (May 20), it was highly disappointing as Union Railway Minister Aswini Vaishnav’s categorically stated that the concession for senior citizens cannot be resumed with Railways already operating at subsidised rates. In this connection, I am to inform you that the number of concessions in Railway ticket fares were withdrawn in March 2020 citing the Covid pandemic and now the Railways have resumed some of the concessions except the one for senior citizens. The fare concession for the elderly people for their train journeys has not been restored. The concession was a great relief to the elderly people to travel for medical treatment and pilgrimages.

Row over Hindi language

The prime minister asking his party leaders not to create a row over the Hindi language appears to say that the row is created by others and not his government. This amounts to preaching something and practising exactly the opposite. There has been surreptitious attempts to bring Hindi by the backdoor while glorifying the local languages and trying to eliminate English from existence. This government is committed to having only Hindi everywhere while paying lip service to local languages.

Is Ukraine being forgotten?

The world seems to have become indifferent to the ongoing Russian belligerence in Ukraine, which is but an exercise in mass murder. Ukraine has ordered her troops which had been holed up in the besieged Azovstal steelworks in the Port city of Mariupol, and offering resistance to lay down arms. Russia’s murderous attack on Mariupol has drawn multiple accusations of war crimes, including a deadly attack on a maternity ward (NIE May 21, 2022).

Travesty of justice

On the principle of uberimma fides (utmost good faith) students join courses and colleges advertising them. In the absence of published and updated data by the UGC and other bodies on approved courses and institutions, it is a travesty of justice on hapless students who pay hefty fees and commence studies in these courses and colleges. Should not there be suitable punishment awarded to the regulatory authorities who should have exercised due diligence and make aware on unapproved courses. The students always get flogged for their innocence.

Indo-Pacific to figure in Quad talks

Discussions with other leaders to focus on economic ties, security

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi and other Quad leaders are expected to deliberate on the challenges and opportunities in the Indo-Pacific and other pressing global issues at their summit talks in Tokyo on May 24. Modi will be leaving for Japan on Monday to attend the fourth Quad Summit, where he will also hold bilateral meetings with the leaders of the other three nations that are part of the grouping — the US, Australia and Japan.

"In the context of the Indo-Pacific challenges and opportunities, China and the issues we have with them are likely to be discussed," Foreign Secretary Vinay Mohan Kwatra said.

India had on Friday reacted strongly to China constructing a second bridge on Pangong Lake, as revealed by satellite images. China's military build-up along the Line of Control in eastern Ladakh has been a sore

Summer sojourns of PM Narendra Modi

After Quad summit on May 24 in Tokyo, PM Narendra Modi has been invited for G-7 but he hasn't confirmed his participation yet. The G-7 is between June 26 and 28 in Schloss Elmau, Bavarian Alps. Earlier, the PM went on a three-nation trip to Germany, Denmark and France from May 2 to May 4, which was his foreign tour this year.

point with India.

The summit will provide the leaders with an opportunity to take stock of the progress made so far under the Quad framework. The leaders will review the progress of Quad initiatives and working groups, identify new areas of cooperation and provide strategic guidance and vision for future collaboration. The summit is likely to review the progress of the working groups formed last year on critical technologies, cyber security, vaccine distribution, climate change and other issues. The Russian war in Ukraine is also set to come up.

"Discussions are also likely for the second India Japan 2+2 meeting. Talks will take place around critical and emerging technologies with Quad countries," Kwatra added. PM Modi is expected to attend a round table with leading members of the Japanese business community. He will also interact with the Indian diaspora.

On Japan trip, Modi to skip Renkoji again

NEW DELHI: Prime Minister, Narendra Modi, will be visiting Japan after eight years and the one place he will skip going visiting is the Renkoji temple, which houses the ashes of Netaji Subash Chandra Bose.

Even though the Modi government has been giving a lot of importance to Netaji and had even placed his hologram statue at India Gate to mark his 125th birth anniversary this January, they haven't so far taken steps to unravel the mystery shrouding Bose's death or ascertain whether the ashes in Renkoji are indeed of Netaji.

When Modi had visited Japan in 2014, the Netaji Subash Kranti Manch and the Indian Embassy in Tokyo had suggested that he visit the temple, but the PM had skipped it. ENS

Norms tweaked for faster green nod to mining projects

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

TO expedite green nod to mining projects, especially in Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh and Odisha, the Environment Ministry has decided to tweak norms for preparation of Wildlife Management Plan (WMP).

Under the WMP, a study on the impact of the project on environment and wildlife is carried out and mitigation measures suggested. Since the process is time-taking, the new policy calls for charging a certain fixed percentage of the project cost towards implementation of WMP.

The policy measure recommended by the ministry's forest panel says the state government should submit the WMP along with the Stage-I compliance. Besides, the detailed cost of its implementation has to be submitted into the account of Compensatory Afforestation (CAMPA).

In cases where it is not possible for the State to submit the compliance due to delay in preparation of the plan, 2 per cent of total project cost towards the implementation of the WMP and/or 0.5 per cent of the project cost towards the implementation of Soil and Moisture Conservation Plan, as the case may be, shall be charged from the user agency and deposited into the account of CAMPA, the Forest Advisory Committee (FAC) recommended in its recent meeting.

Approval granted under the FC Act-1980, for mining projects mostly carries conditions pertaining to preparation of Wildlife Management or Soil and Moisture Conservation Plan by the state in consultation with an institute of repute. In a way, the new proposal does away with it.

BJP HAS SPRINKLED KEROSENE TO IGNITE TROUBLE, SAYS RAHUL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FROM the UK, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday launched a blistering attack on the Modi government and in a comment that has ignited a fierce debate back home, alleged that BJP had spread "kerosene all over the country and all it needs is one spark".

Speaking at the 'Ideas for India' conference, Rahul said the soul of India was under attack from the saffron party and the government led by it. India's voice had been crushed by the institutional framework of the country itself, which was becoming parasitical, he said, adding that the Modi government was strangulating democracy with help of Central investigative agencies.

"A soul without a voice means nothing and what has happened is that India's voice has been crushed. So, the 'Deep State', the CBI, the ED, is now chewing the Indian State and eating it, much like in Pakistan," he said.

Taking on PM Narendra Modi, the Gandhi scion said: "The Prime Minister must have an attitude that 'I want to listen'. And from there everything flows down. But our Prime Minister doesn't listen. You can't have a country that's not allowed to speak and a PMO that can't speak freely."

Several other opposition leaders, including CPM general secretary Sitaram Yechury, TMC's Mahua Moitra and RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav are participating in the conference, organised by the think-tank Bridge India.

Congress not the big daddy

Trying to placate regional players who lashed out at his recent comment that only the Congress could fight the BJP

ideologically, Rahul said the party will coordinate with regional players to take on the BJP and did not want to play the role of a "Big Daddy".

Clarifying his comment made at the Congress Chintan Shivir, he said: "The point I made in Udaipur, which was misconstrued, is that this is an ideological battle now. It is a national ideological battle, which means that, of course, we respect the DMK as a Tamil political organisation, but the Congress is the party that has the ideology at the national level.

"I don't view the Congress as the 'Big Daddy'. It is a group effort with the opposition. But it is a fight to regain India. In no way is the Congress superior to the other opposition parties; we are all fighting the same battle," he said.

'Desperate leader of a failed party maligning India'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE ruling Bharatiya Janata Party went hammer and tongs against Rahul Gandhi, alleging he was 'maligning' the image of India on foreign soil just because he was harbouring a 'grudge and hatred' against Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the BJP.

"His all critical remarks, spoken about the country from international forums or foreign soils in the past and the latest one... amount to betraying the country," said BJP spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia.

Stung by Rahul's kerosene remark, the BJP spokesperson said it was the Congress that sprinkled kerosene oil. "The carnage of 1984 is still an example showing how the Congress leaders had sprinkled the kerosene oil."

Dubbing Rahul as a "desperate, failed, immature and part-time leader of a hopeless Congress party," Bhatia said wherever he had gone on a foreign trip, he had made critical comments against India in the name of expressing "political aversion" against PM Narendra Modi and the BJP.

"You (Rahul Gandhi), as a part of healthy politics in the role of opposition, can oppose the BJP, but you don't have the right to be critical against the country or make baseless allegations," the BJP leader said. Criticise Modi if you want to, but not India, he added.

Lashing out at the Congress leader for comparing India with Pakistan, which has been under the military rule for a large part of the 7.5 decades since its existence, and goes begging with a bowl for survival. "Beware Rahul Gandhi in comparing India with Pakistan. India was, is and will remain great," the BJP national spokesperson added.

AMIT SHAH IN ARUNACHAL

'Want to bring NE on par with developed states'

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

HOME Minister Amit Shah on Saturday said a peaceful Northeast is one of Centre's three goals for the region, along with safeguarding local cultures, and development.

"We not only want to protect local cultures, languages and traditions but also enrich them. We want to make the region insurgency, and dispute-free and give a platform to the youth to compete with the world," Shah said, after unveiling a statue of Swami Vivekananda at the Ramakrishna Mission Ashram at Narottam Nagar in Arunachal Pradesh. "We want to ensure that the states here are on a par with the developed states." Over 60% of areas on the Assam-Meghalaya boundary had been freed from disputes, Shah said. The two states had signed an agreement to resolve their disputes in six of the 12 areas. He added that the Assam-Arunachal problem could be resolved by 2023.

Stressing how PM Narendra Modi has brought about change, Shah said, "Over 9,000 youth, who were wielding the gun, joined the mainstream." He highlighted how issues like bandhs in Manipur, the Bru unrest in Mizoram-Tripura, and problems in Assam's Bodo areas were resolved. "Modiji has reduced the gap between the Northeast and the rest of the country," Shah said.

High Court extends restriction over SC certificates to 18 UP castes

LUCKNOW: The Allahabad High Court has extended the restriction on Issuing Scheduled Caste (SC) certificate to 18 castes that currently fall in the OBC category. The state government has not filed its reply even after five years of the court's directive to present its side in a petition seeking inclusion of 18 castes in SC category. The petition was filed during the SP rule in 2017. The castes, which the Samajwadi Party and Yogi governments intended to include in SC category, are Majhwar, Kahar, Kashyap, Kevat, Mallah, Nishad, Kumhar, Prajapati, Bing, Dheevar, Bhar, Rajbhar, Dhiman, Batham, Turha, Godia, Manjhi and Machchhua. The court has posted the matter in July first week for hearing. ENS

KCR-Akhilesh discuss current 'national issues' in Delhi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AS part of an effort to stitch together a broad opposition alliance, Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav met Telangana Chief Minister K. Chandrabab Naidu on Saturday.

Rao, who took the lead to create an anti-BJP front, meeting his Maharashtra counterpart Uddhav Thackeray and NCP supremo Sharad Pawar in Mumbai in February, is in Delhi to take part in a week-long programme covering national, political and social meetings.

"The Samajwadi Party chief and the chief minister discussed various national issues," a statement from KCR's office said.

The meeting assumes significance in the backdrop of the Congress' refusal earlier this month to enter into any alliance with KCR. On May 6, while addressing a rally in Telangana, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi ruled out any tie-up with KCR's Telangana Rashtra Samiti, saying the CM was "acting like a king".

KCR's next stop is Chandigarh, where he will meet 600 families of farmers who died "fighting for their rights" against the Centre. Along with Arvind Kejriwal and Bhagwant Mann, the chief ministers of Delhi and Punjab, respectively, he will contribute ₹3 lakh to each family.

Interim relief: OCI students can apply against NRI seats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN an interim relief, the SC has permitted students to apply for state and all-India examinations and counselling against the NRI seats, by production of proof of his/her Overseas Citizens of India (OCI) status and domicile in India without being required to upload documents for NRI status.

The interim order is subject to the outcome of the main petition challenging the government notification of 2021 which contends that the parity granted to OCIs with Indian citizens is reversed by the notification. The petitioners had said that OCIs cannot apply for general seats due to the notification that puts them on par with NRIs, and they can't apply for NRI seats as the portal of the Kerala counselling authority asks for details of an NRI sponsor. "OCIs form a different class from NRIs as many petitioners' parents are Indian citizens, and they reside and work in India, earn in Indian currency and have been tax payers in India for the last several years," the plea reads.

Plea challenges new NEET SS pattern

THE SC has issued notice on plea seeking directions to restrain National Board of Examinations from excluding / deleting MD Radiation Oncology / MD Radiotherapy from the eligible feeder specialties for the super specialty course of DM Medical Oncology in NEET SS-2022. The plea has also challenged the changed examination pattern which would now consist of 150 questions from the general component of the broad specialty subject and from all sub-specialty systems of that broad specialty subject. "There will be no questions from broad specialties of the other four post-graduate branches. The pattern is grossly biased against a few broad specialties, particularly in favour of MD Medicine," the plea says.

Prisoner No 137683 Sidhu may be released early if he behaves well

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

CONVICTED in a murder case and handed a one-year sentence by the Supreme Court, former Punjab Congress chief Navjot Singh Sidhu alias Sherry is prisoner number 137683 in Barrack 10 in Patiala Central Jail where he shares the cell with 10 other prisoners serving murder sentences.

He skipped dinner last night but had his medicines in the jail. Today he did some meditation and exercised. His arch-political rival senior Shiromani Akali Dal's Bikram Majithia is his neighbour in the jail. Majithia is convicted in a drugs case. Sidhu and Majithia were MLAs and their constituencies were adjacent.

Sidhu reached the Patiala Central Jail around 6.15 pm on Friday. The jail authorities allotted him the prisoner number 137683 and lodged him in ward number (barrack) 10 of the jail that has a 12x15 feet cell. The barrack also has around 10 inmates serving murder sentences, police sources said.

Around 7 pm on Friday, he was given dinner as per the Punjab Prisons Manual, which included dal (lentils) and chapatis. However, as Sidhu is on medication and needs a special diet, which should not include wheat flour, so he skipped dinner but had his medicines. He has brought two pairs of clothes and some utensils with him.

Sources said that as per the jail manual, he has been provided with four sets of white kurta-pyjamas, a chair-table, a cupboard, two turbans, a blanket, a bed, three sets of undergarments and a vest, two towels, a mosquito net, a copy and a pen, a pair of shoes, two bed-covers and two pillow covers.

Sidhu's lawyer HPS Verma met him in the jail today and said Sidhu was keeping good health.

Sources said Sidhu was likely to spend less than eight months in jail if he displayed good conduct. Sidhu can get 48 days remission in the sentence in lieu of working in the jail factory as a convict gets four-day remission per month. The jail superintendent has the power to remit another 30-day sentence, which is generally given to almost all convicts.

The third 60-day remission can come from the Director General of Police (Jails), which usually comes in exceptional cases and with political consent. Sidhu has a good chance of getting this remission due to his proximity with Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann.

Former banker among 6 Bangladeshis held by ED

CHANDAN NANDY @ New Delhi

SIX Bangladeshi nationals, including a former top banker from Dhaka, accused in embezzlement of crores of money in their country, were on May 15 arrested by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in a "quiet operation" from Ashoknagar in North 24 Parganas district.

The swoop at nine locations in Kolkata, Ashoknagar and Katwa, punches holes in the central government's stand against illegal immigration. It also exposes weak passport security control, and lax police and intelligence functioning in West Bengal.

According to sources in Kolkata and Dhaka, Prasanta Kumar Haldar, a former NRB Global Bank MD, disappeared from Dhaka in 2019 after facing charges of embezzlement to the tune of Taka 2,500 crore (nearly equivalent to INR). He assumed a fictitious identity as Shibshankar Haldar here.

Among the others arrested are his brothers. Prithwish Kumar Haldar and Pranesh Kumar Haldar. The five men were remanded to ED custody till May 17 (since extended till May 24), while the woman accomplice is in judicial custody.

Fraudulent documents

The six Bangladeshis nationals had obtained Indian citizenship by fraudulently securing documents. The ED's operation was conducted following a request by the Bangladesh government

Details of the probe by the Bangladesh agencies — available with TNIE — show that Shibshankar entered India at the Benapole border on Oct. 23, 2019. He invested the embezzled money in 20-22 properties in North 24 Parganas. There are 34 cases filed against him in Bangladesh, while 83 bank accounts have been frozen. He obtained loans from Bangladesh banks for benami companies. The ED has found that they purchased "immovable properties" in Bengal. Mr. Haldar too invested money in the state. The ED is expected to try to have them extradited.

Rescue operations underway at an under-construction tunnel near Magarkote in Ramban district of Jammu and Kashmir | PTI

Death toll in landslide at J&K tunnel touches 10

All bodies pulled out; rescue ops were delayed by adverse weather

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

BODIES of all the 10 labourers trapped under the debris of an under-construction tunnel on Srinagar-Jammu national highway have been pulled out.

The rescue operation launched by NDRF, SDRF, police, Army and local administration after the collapse of the under-construction tunnel at Khooni Nallah on Srinagar-Jammu highway in Ramban district continued for the second consecutive day on Saturday.

Ten labourers were trapped under the debris while three others were rescued after the collapse of the tunnel on Thursday night.

The teams pulled out bodies of all the 10 trapped labourers from the debris by Saturday evening. Body of one labourer was recovered on Friday while bodies of nine others were pulled out on Saturday.

Deputy Commissioner of Ramban, Mussarat Islam said the bodies have been shifted to a government hospital for identification and other legal formalities.

Islam, however, said the incident was not a tunnel collapse but a landslide. "The adit tunnel which was being constructed for tunnel T-4 is safe. The outer portion of the adit tunnel just caved in. The work had just started on the adit tunnel. It is not a tunnel collapse. It is a routine slide, which happened in the dead of the night under which a section of labourers got trapped in the debris," the deputy commissioner said.

Of the 10 deceased labourers, five were from West Bengal, two from Nepal, one from Assam and two were locals.

Strong winds, dust storm and landslides had hampered the rescue operation.

No inquiry has been ordered by the administration into the tunnel collapse so far.

The DC further said an immediate ex gratia of ₹25,000 from the Red Cross fund and ₹25,000 from the company is being given to kin of two local labourers, who are believed to have died in the incident.

Former MLA and senior CPI(M) leader Mohammad Yusuf Tarigami demanded a judicial probe into the accident and ₹40 lakh compensation for the kin of the deceased.

ers of the state under the Rajiv Gandhi Kisan Nyay Yojana in the last two years. After including the amount of ₹122.24 crore paid so far to sugarcane farmers, this figure will increase to ₹13,022.45 crore.

Similarly, the first installment of over ₹71 crore has been released to over 3.5 lakh beneficiaries under the Rajiv Gandhi Gramin Krishi Bhumiheen Mazdoor Nyay Yojana, aimed at providing financial assistance to rural landless agricultural labourers. Under this scheme, beneficiaries will get financial assistance of ₹7,000 per year.

Baghel also transferred ₹13.31 crore to the bank accounts of cow dung vendors, Gauthan committees and women self-help groups under the Godhan Nyay Yojana. This takes the total to ₹250.40 crore, including ₹140.71 crore to cow dung vendors, ₹63.92 crore to Gauthan committees and ₹45.77 crore to women self-help groups.

11-km-long stole, a new record for Maoist hotbed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Raipur

OFTEN in the news for Maoist activities, the hot zone of Dantewada in south Chhattisgarh will grab headlines for another reason when Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel offers a 11-km-long red stole at the local goddess temple on Sunday.

The attractively-designed chunri (stole) in red — the colour believed to engage positive energies and divine vibrations among worshippers — has been prepared by around 300 women, who work with the DANNEX Garment Factory.

The unit was started a year and a half ago by the district administration.

The move has empowered local women who are stitching and designing garments of branded textile companies which place their orders from across the country.

Traditionally, temple deities in the region are offered chunri. "Offering the Mata Ki Chunri would be a significant occasion in the history of Dantewada, when our CM himself will offer it during the ceremony at Danteshwari temple on Sunday. A world record is going to be created as 300 women at DANNEX have prepared the 11-km-long chunri," said Dantewada collector Deepak Soni. The occasion will break the previous record of 8,000-metre chunri dedicated earlier to Narmada Maiya at Mandsaur in MP, he added.

"We are privileged to prepare the chunri which will set a world record. We were thrilled when asked to engage in the pious work to prepare the 11,000-metre stole in honour of Maa Danteshwari," said the women workers.

MENTALLY CHALLENGED MAN DIES AFTER ASSAULT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

IN a shocking incident, a 65-year-old mentally challenged man was found dead in Neemuch district, just a few hours after he was thrashed allegedly by a BJP associate "over suspicion of being a Muslim".

Bhanwarlal Jain, eldest of the three sons of the oldest surviving sarpanch Pistabai Chhatar Jain in Sirsa village of neighbouring Ratlam district, was found dead around one km from Manasa Police Station in Neemuch district on May 19.

Jain had been missing since May 16 from Chittorgarh district of neighbouring Rajasthan where he had gone with relatives for offering prayers at a temple. A missing-person complaint was lodged by his family at Chittorgarh on May 16.

Three days later, his body was found at Rampura Road in adjoining Neemuch district of MP.

Manasa Police subsequently circulated the body's picture on social media, seeing which his kin rushed to Manasa on May 19. Just a day later, a shocking video of Jain being thrashed mercilessly by a BJP party associate Dinesh Kushwah went viral. In the one-minute video which was possibly shot at a tea shop, the former BJP youth wing leader is seen thrashing Jain, asking him if his name is Mohammad. It is suspected the elderly man was thrashed on suspicion of being a Muslim.

"After the video of the savagery went viral on Friday, the deceased man's kin came to us, alleging it was the assault which caused the elderly person's death. A case was subsequently lodged under sections 304(II) and 302 of IP," Manasa Police Station in-charge KL Dangi said.

The police arrested Kushwah on Saturday.

RTI-aided job scam in Bengal on radar

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

THE Right to Information (RTI) Act, which is often used by anti-corruption crusaders across the country, was used to commit irregularities in the appointments to schools in West Bengal. The startling revelation was made by the Calcutta High Court-appointed committee probing the alleged scam in the recruitment of Group C and D staff in schools through the School Service Commission (SSC).

In its report to the high court, the committee said the officers behind the irregularities allowed certain candidates to file RTI applications seeking their answer sheets and apply for re-evaluation in violation of the provisions of the SSC rules. As per the report, the officers manipulated the answer sheets by increasing the marks of some candidates, forged marks to bring unsuccessful candidates into the appointment list and destroyed the answer sheets after the malpractice.

Arunava Banerjee, member of the probe committee and a high court advocate, said RTI was used as a tool to access the answer scripts for manipulation. "Once the purpose was served, the answer sheets were destroyed," he said.

The report also mentioned that recommendation letters were forged by using data from the server of the commission and by obtaining scanned signatures of the chairpersons of the regional commissions.

The committee, headed by retired high court justice Ranjit Ranjit Bag, had placed its report before the high court on May 12 and based on the report a division bench upheld the single bench order for a CBI probe into the alleged scam.

While the agency has already interrogated former education minister Partha Chatterjee, it has been grilling incumbent education minister Paresh Adhikary for three consecutive days. On Friday, the high court ordered the dismissal of Adhikary's daughter Ankita as assistant teacher in a government-aided school and asked her to return the entire salary that she received since the date of her joining. Several SSC officials are also under the scanner of the central agency.

The entire recruitment process, which started in 2016, allegedly flouted rules to favour 381 candidates in Group C category of whom around 250 were not on the merit list. Similarly, 609 unsuccessful Group D candidates were allegedly issued recommendation letters.

Punjab dairy farmers on stir path

Chandigarh: Punjab dairy farmers on Saturday held a massive protest in front of a state-owned milk plant in Mohali, seeking hike in milk procurement prices. Though the AAP government Saturday announced to increase Rs 20 per kg milk fat, the protesting farmers rejected it as inadequate, saying they want a hike of at least Rs 100 per kg. Under the banner of Progressive Dairy Farmers' Association (PDFA), farmers from several parts of the state gathered outside the Verma milk plant in Mohali. They blocked one side of the main road leading to Chandigarh in support of their demands.

Mob torches police station in Assam

Guwahati: A mob of hundreds torched an Assam police station on Saturday, protesting the alleged custodial death of a fish trader. The incident was reported from central Assam's Nagaon district. The mob barged into the Batadrava Police Station, vandalised it and beat up the personnel. Later, it torched the police station. Two policemen were injured. The police had picked up Safikul Islam of the Salnabari area in the district on Friday night and demanded ₹10,000 besides a duck from him, the wife of the deceased alleged. She said as the family could afford only a duck, the police allegedly beat him up and killed him.

It's official: Gujarat government scraps Tapi-Narmada river-linking project

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

THE Gujarat government has officially scrapped the Tapi-Narmada river-linking project, which had attracted the wrath of tribal community in the state. At a press conference in Surat on Saturday, Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel announced his government's decision to junk the project, "respecting the sentiments of tribals".

The BJP government's move comes after Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's recent announcement in tribal-dominated Dahod district that "the project will be cancelled once the Congress forms government in Gujarat".

All political parties in Gujarat — ruling BJP, opposition Congress and new-entrant AAP — have been trying to woo the tribal community in the state.

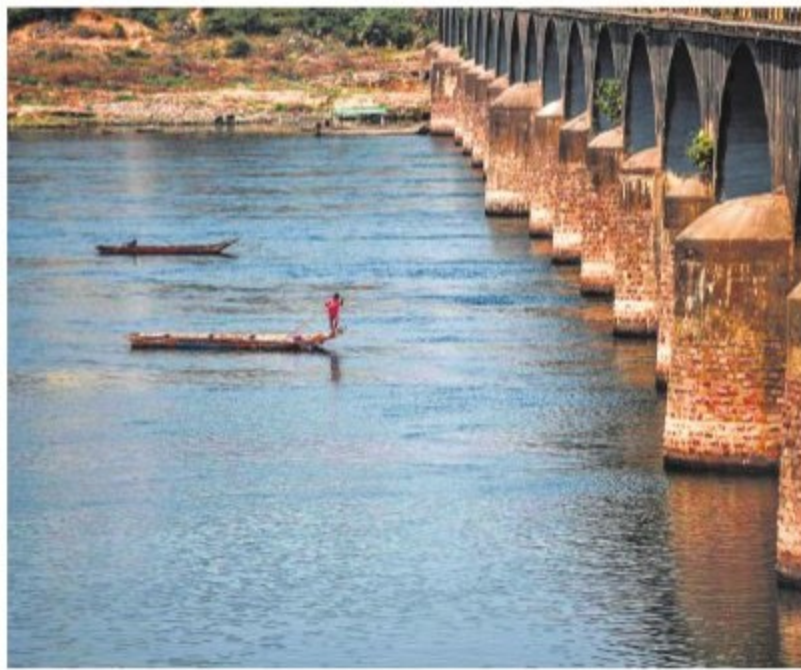

Announcing the cancellation of the prestigious project, which had found mention in the Union Budget, CM Patel said his government has been implementing several schemes for the benefit of the tribals.

"There is resentment towards the project due to some misunderstandings among the tribal brothers and sisters. After the announcement of any scheme by the Central government, the approval of the state concerned is sought and only then it proceeds with the project. The Gujarat government has not given its approval for this scheme and has decided that this scheme will not be taken forward," the CM said.

The Gujarat government had earlier announced in the Assembly that the project would be "postponed". However, apprehending political costs, the state government has now scrapped the entire project.

Congress MLA and tribal leader Anant Patel has demanded a "white paper" on cancelling the project.

After the announcement of any scheme by the Central government, the approval of the state concerned is sought and only then it proceeds with the project. The Gujarat government has not given its approval for this project and has decided that it will not be taken forward — Bhupendra Patel, CM

Congress won't project CM face in Gujarat Assembly poll

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Ahmedabad

THE Gujarat Congress will go to voters without a chief minister face, according to party in-charge Raghu Sharma. The grand old party has formed six panels for the Assembly polls due later this year.

The party's decision not to project anyone as the chief minister in the run-up to the polls has scotched the rumours about Patidar leader Naresh Patel joining the party.

Naresh Patel had reportedly demanded that he would contest the polls if he was projected as the CM.

The party has set an ambitious target of winning 125 seats in the 182-member Assembly, Raghu Sharma told the media in south Gujarat's Bardoli.

In the 2017 election, Congress had won 77 seats.

Jolted by the exit of Hardik Patel, the state Congress is planning to hold a series of programmes across the state. The party has planned a foot march between August 9 and 15. The journey will cover at least 75 km in each district to connect with the people. The party will also launch its 'Mera Booth Mera Gaurav' initiative on the lines of the ruling BJP. The Congress estimates that about 13 lakh new workers will join the party.

Birla's mantra at e-Vidhan launch

With the commencing of the budget session on May 23, Uttar Pradesh Assembly will become the only second House in the country — after Nagaland — to go fully digital. The difference is, Nagaland Assembly has 60 members and UP 403. A training programme for UP legislators was launched by Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla on Thursday. Speaking on the occasion, Birla decried the practice of MLAs trooping into the well, raising slogans and raising banners in Parliament and Assemblies. "These practices demean the dignity of the House to which people looked with much hopes and aspirations," he said. Finance minister Suresh Khanna will table the government's first budget on May 26.

Health minister's 'surprise' overdrive

Deputy CM and health minister Brajesh Pathak is in an overdrive. On Thursday, he raided the Medical Supply Corporation's godown in Lucknow to find expired medicines worth ₹16 crore. These medicines apparently had not been supplied to government hospitals which always show paucity of life-saving drugs. A fuming Pathak ordered an inquiry from the spot itself. He wrote his order on a blank paper which was available there, signed it and put his seal. Now the secretary of the department has been asked to file a report in three days. Earlier, in another raid, he detected medicines worth ₹24 lakh at a government hospital. Otherwise also, he has been doing surprise inspections of hospitals across the state.

'Nani', with ₹25,000 bounty, on the run

On top of the most-wanted list is an elderly woman who is called 'nani'. Yes, she is the grandmother of the kingpin of a recently busted gang which was expert in 'tappebaji' (stealing goods from vehicles and shops) and was making a killing at big fat weddings across three states. The kingpin revealed that it was his nani, who mentored and coached this Rajgarh-based gang. After a few days of searching, when she couldn't be located, the police announced a bounty of ₹25,000 on the head of nani aka Beena Bai. IG (Prayagraj) Rakesh Singh said, "Special teams have been dispatched to ensure the arrest of Beena Bai after the police announced ₹25,000 cash reward on her. Police are also preparing her sketch."

Russia's claim of Mariupol capture fuels concerns for prisoners of war

Moscow says its forces have removed the last Ukrainian fighters from steel plant's tunnels

POKROVSK

RUSSIA'S claimed seizure of a Mariupol steel plant that became a symbol of Ukrainian tenacity gives Russian President Vladimir Putin a sorely needed victory in the war he began, capping a nearly three-month siege that left the city in ruins and more than 20,000 residents feared dead.

After the Russian Defence Ministry announced late on Friday that its forces had removed the last Ukrainian fighters from the plant's miles of underground tunnels, concern mounted for the Ukrainian defenders who now are prisoners in Russian hands.

Denis Pushilin, the head of an area of eastern Ukraine controlled by Moscow-backed separatists, said on Saturday that the Ukrainians considered heroes by their fellow citizens were sure to face a tribunal for their wartime actions.

"I believe that a tribunal is inevitable here. I believe that justice must be restored. There is a request for this from ordinary people, society and, probably, the sane part of the world community," Russian state news agency Tass quoted Pushilin as saying.

Russian officials and state media repeatedly have tried to characterise the fighters who holed up in the Azovstal steel plant as neo-Nazis. Among the plant's more than 2,400 defenders were members of the Azov Regiment, a national guard unit with roots in the far right. The Ukrainian government has not commented on Russia's claim of capturing Azovstal, which for weeks remained Mariupol's last holdout of Ukrainian resistance, and with it completing Moscow's long-sought goal of controlling the city, home to a strategic seaport. Ukraine's military this week told the fighters holed up in the plant, hundreds of them wounded, that their mission was complete and they could come out. It described their extraction as an evacuation, not a mass surrender.

The impact of Russia's declared victory on the broader war in Ukraine remained unclear. Many Russian troops already had been redeployed from Mariupol to elsewhere in the conflict, which began with the Russian invasion of its neighbour on February 24. Russian Defence Ministry spokesman Igor Konashenkov reported on Saturday that Russia had destroyed a Ukrainian special-operations base in Black Sea region of Odesa as well as significant cache of Western-supplied weapons in northern Ukraine's Zhytomyr region. Biden signs $40-bn aid bill for war effort

Seoul: US President Joe Biden on Saturday signed a $40-billion bill set to ensure a steady supply of weaponry and economic support for Ukraine in its fight against Russia, the White House said. Biden signed the bill passed earlier by Congress while visiting Seoul on his first trip to Asia as president. The bill, which will funnel support to Ukraine for about the next five months, includes around $6 billion budgeted for armoured vehicles and air defences. AFP

Only diplomacy can end war: Zelenskyy

Kyiv: The Ukraine war can only be resolved through "diplomacy", Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said on Saturday amid a deadlock in negotiations between Kyiv and Moscow. "The end will be through diplomacy," he told a Ukrainian TV channel. The war "will be bloody, there will be fighting but will only definitively end through diplomacy". "Discussions between Ukraine-Russia will take place. Under what format I don't know — with intermediaries, without them, in a broader group, at presidential level," Zelenskyy said. AFP

CRISIS-HIT SRI LANKA LIFTS STATE OF EMERGENCY

COLOMBO

THE STATE of emergency in Sri Lanka has been lifted with effect from Saturday after the government decided not to present the Emergency Regulations in Parliament for approval with the improvement of the law and order situation in the island nation, nearly two weeks after it was imposed following unprecedented anti-government protests.

Embattled Sri Lankan President Gotabaya Rajapaksa had declared a state of emergency with effect from May 6 midnight, the second time in just over a month amidst growing countrywide anti-government protests over the economic crisis.

The Presidential Secretariat stated that the state of emergency has been lifted with effect from Friday midnight, Hiru News reported.

The president had declared a state of emergency on May 6 with a special gazette notification. It is up to Parliament to enact and enforce the state of emergency, which must be submitted to the House by the president within 14 days of enactment, the report.

However, the government decided not to present the Emergency Regulations in Parliament, following which the emergency ceased to function with effect from May 20 midnight, local news website newswire.lk reported.

The move was taken with the improvement of the law and order situation in the island nation. The state of emergency gave the police and the security forces sweeping power to arbitrarily arrest and detain people.

The president's decision to declare the emergency had come amidst weeks of protests demanding his resignation and the government, blaming the powerful Rajapaksa clan for mishandling the island nation's economy, already hit by the pandemic. AP

Top cop interrogated over violence

Colombo: A top Sri Lankan police officer was interrogated by the Criminal Investigation Department on Saturday over his alleged actions that triggered clashes between anti- and pro-government protesters earlier this month that killed at least 10 people and injured over 200. Officials said members of CID interrogated Inspector General of Police Chandana D Wickramaratne over the incident. Last week, CID quizzed three members of SLPP group over their alleged involvement in the clashes.

Logistics & workforce gender gap

Problem is one of the largest job-generating sectors is creating opportunities mainly for men

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

EVEN as everything came to a standstill during the Covid-19 pandemic, one sector was moving constantly, in fact, faster than ever before - logistics.

Data sourced from various employment agencies suggest the rapid technology adoption and growth of allied sectors have led to the expansion of logistics sector, which has also emerged as one of the key job creators. According to industry estimates, the sector employed nearly 21.24 million people back in 2016 and this number is expected to go beyond 30 million by the end of 2022. So where's the problem? Well, it lies in the fact that one of the largest employment-generating sectors is creating opportunities predominantly for men.

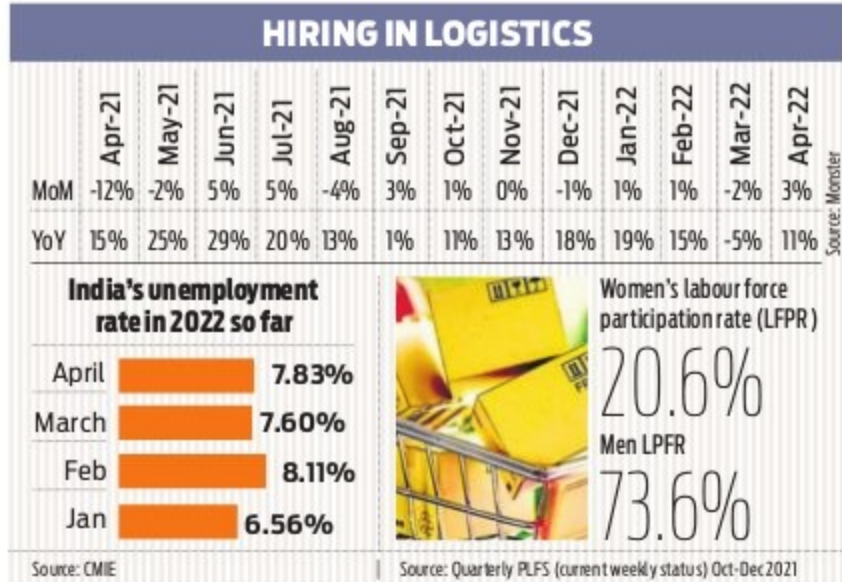

The state of employment in the country has been distressing lately. Employment has been on the decline, women employment even more so. According to CMIE, India's unemployment problem shot up to 7.83% in April from 7.60% in March. More worryingly, women's labour force participation rate (LFPR) is only 20.6%, which is significantly low compared to men at 73.6%, as per quarterly periodic labour force survey (PLFS) (current weekly status) October-December 2021. Reflecting the worsening of this situation, in 2021, India fell 28 places in the Global Gender Gap Index and ranked 140 among 156 countries. It is during the same time the gender gap widened by 3% due to declining participation of women in the labour force.

Against the backdrop of this scenario, imagine a sector that's employing an ever-increasing number of people but is largely unapproachable for women. This, if not addressed, can lead to a further deepening of the gender gap.

Growth of e-commerce, emergence of direct-to-consumer (D2C) businesses, and digitisation have all worked in favour of the logistics sector. In India, the sector is estimated to be a $200 billion industry with a contribution of over 14% to the country's GDP. According to industry studies, the Indian e-commerce logistics industry is expected to reach ₹492.4 billion by 2025.

The gender divide

Though there's no concrete data, industry estimates suggest that only 20% of women are employed in the sector. Further, only 1% of commercial driving licences are owned by women, according to a Ministry of Road Transport and Highways report (2018).

The gender gap in the sector is conspicuous. Most people mightn't have ever come across a women delivery partner for delivery of food or any other packages. That's not a coincidence but the state of affairs. Food delivery platform Zomato until June 2021 had less than 0.5% of its delivery partners as women. Swiggy too has over 200,000 delivery partners, out of which only 1,000 (0.5%) are women. As of now, Amazon India has five all-women delivery stations operating in Tamil Nadu, Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh, and Kerala. The company has nearly 1,650 delivery stations. None of the mentioned companies responded to the queries TNIE sent to them about the latest figures of women delivery partners and if they have a harassment cell in place, a major deterrent for potential women employees on the road and in warehouses.

It's improving, just not enough

According to the Randstad Research team, the gradual digitisation and automation of the sector have led to the creation of new jobs and the transformation of the older ones. This has created more opportunities for women employees working in this industry with the percentage of women employed going up from 8-10% to 20-25% over the past 10-12 years.

Many e-commerce companies are setting up fulfilment centres and undertaking initiatives to improve gender diversity. Women hold a third of the sorting, packing, loading, and customer support jobs this year, up from nearly a tenth even three-four years ago, according to Ajoy Thomas, vice-president and business head (retail, e-commerce, logistics & transportation), TeamLease Services.

A recent report by HR consultancy start-up Vahan states delivery businesses may see doubling of women workforce to 15%. On ground, however, the change is yet to be seen.

Hiring in logistics to grow multifold

With the pandemic-induced digital shift, hiring sentiment in the sector is more optimistic than ever. Thomas says hiring is expected to grow multifold and the sector's intent to hire stands at 63% for April-June 2022, which is a considerable increase of nearly 10% compared to the previous quarter. The various roles companies are hiring for include data scientists, warehouse workers, supply chain managers, delivery persons, customer service executives, call centre operators, operations, machine learning, applied sciences, support functions, warehouse roles (movers, pickers, packers, loaders etc).

Thomas believes logistics firms are assisting e-commerce and D2C firms to seamlessly manage supply chain and last-mile delivery operations at low costs. "India has over 800 D2C brands, and the sector was worth $44.6 billion in 2021 and is projected to touch $100 billion by 2025. All of this will be contributing to the surge in employment opportunities for the next few quarters."

Randstad has also seen a 25-30% increase in hiring activities across verticals in this sector YoY led by increased demand for warehousing and delivery roles.

Augment the ecosystem

A key factor to improve the gender parity in logistics is to augment the ecosystem for women. Sona Mitra, Principal Economist, Initiative for What Works to Advance Women and Girls in the Economy (IW-WAGE) says not making the sector amenable for women's entry would lead to further clustering of women into typical activities leading to labour market distortions and intensifying gender gaps in earnings.

"Some platforms have made special provisions to create space for women in delivery but the nature of the job is yet to become acceptable, as well as the opportunities are yet to be available for women in general," she said.

Mitra said it would require companies to create spaces for employing women in these jobs - which entails a list of changes in terms of employment that could facilitate more women to join. "For example women tend to find it difficult to deliver at odd hours of evenings - so safety clauses have to be strengthened and companies have to take responsibilities, flexibility in accepting or refusing jobs have to be provided to female staff, flexibility of timings is also essential," she said.

Yogesh Kumar, founder, Even Cargo, an all-women delivery platform, says when they started, it was difficult to convince e-commerce companies to employ women. "Further, there were innumerable hurdles that we faced with various stakeholders who were responsible for training women. However, the most challenging of all was to convince women that they can join the logistics workforce. The entire sector catered to male employees."

The women delivery partners that TNIE talked to said they are well equipped for the job but on most days it gets uncomfortable as they only see men doing the job. It's not so much the nature of the job but the acceptance of it that has been a deterrent. For some, however, more than perception, it's the lack of sanitation facilities, resting area, and skill gap that factor in when choosing not to join the logistics workforce.

WILL IPL SURVIVE HIGH 'RIGHTS' COSTS, GROWING FATIGUE?

GURBIR SINGH

AS the 15th IPL season winds into the playoffs and then the finals, the BCCI has its sights on the big auctions for the next 5 years of cricket rights slated for June 12. IPL over the years has come to spell limited-over-unlimited-excitement, celebrity power and discovery of new talents. More than the glamour, IPL has become synonymous with a money-making machine as no other sport format has seen. Will it sustain, or is it showing signs of petering out? Five years ago, Star India had picked up composite rights for broadcasting and digital streaming of IPL matches for 2018-22, for ₹16,347 cr. BCCI for the new 2023-27 tender has ended composite bidding and will cut and splice the rights into many parts to attempt to raise ₹45,000-50,000 cr.

Sample the kind of money riding on the IPL: Tata Group replaced Vivo as 'title sponsors' and are paying BCCI ₹670 cr over 2 years for the 'Tata-IPL' tag. As official sponsors of IPL 2022, the brands - Dream11, Unacademy, Rupay, CRED, Upstox and Tata Safari - will collectively cough up ₹210 cr as fee. As the 'strategic time-out' sponsor, CEAT pays ₹30 cr; while the cost of being the 'umpire sponsor' for Paytm is ₹28 cr. Last auctions, in 2017, BCCI realised composite bidding for 'rights' was a losing proposition. So this year, bidding will be segment-wise. For telecast rights, the base price is fixed at ₹18,130 cr for 74 matches - or nearly ₹90 cr per match, double the last auction price. The base prices for digital rights is pegged at ₹12,200 cr; a gamble considering online ad rates are still low. Besides these, BCCI is selling a basket of 18 games separately, as well as overseas rights, and hoping to raise another ₹3,000 cr. In the fray for the June 12 e-auctions are the regular TV networks - Disney Star, Sony and Zee. Joining them this year are

The money-making machine for BCCI

In the pricing game, BCCI knows big players are not in it for just short-term profits. There is a long-term strategy to 'capture' the viewership ecosystem, and what better route than live cricket!

Declining viewership

This IPL season faced the shocker of falling viewership in the first 4 weeks, with each week showing 30-35% fall in viewership compared to last year's figures. BARC data showed some improvement midway, but advertisers are believed to have queued up outside Disney Star offices to demand their money back. Various reasons are cited for the falling numbers. The 2 big teams, Mumbai Indians and Chennai SK, who have loyal fan following, have performed badly. Big draws like Virat Kohli, Dhoni and Rahul Sharma have fizzled out. TAM Media Research said 84 new brands joined the IPL bandwagon - new brands like Meesho, Spotify and Fogg jostling for presence - even as old advertisers like Maruti have gone off. IPL chairman Brijesh Patel is struggling to explain the fall in numbers. After a peak reach of 350 mn of an audience universe of 836 mn in 2020, it has been downhill since. Cricket pundits say much of unaccounted eyeballs have migrated to OTT platforms. Advertisers are still gung-ho and say there is little else that can make the type of splash that IPL gives to an ad campaign. The limited over format avoids clutter and doesn't permit the viewer to drift away. If only someone can persuade BCCI take a look at the high price of IPL rights and curb its greed.

INFLATION

Govt removes import duty on many iron, steel inputs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

@ New Delhi

IN a series of announcements, the government on Saturday decided to cut the import duty on raw materials and intermediaries for iron & steel, and plastic products to reduce their prices.

In a notification issued on Saturday, the government announced removal of import duties on ferronickel, coke and semi-coke, coking coal and Anthracite/pulverized Coal injection (PCI) coal. All these are used as raw material by the iron and steel industry. The coking coal, ferronickel and PCI used to attract 2.5% import duty while coke and semi-coke had 5% import duty. In lieu of reduction in the import duty on raw material, the government has, however, decided to levy export duty on some iron and steel products. The export duty would be in the range of 15-45% for an array of iron and steel products.

Iron ores pellets will now attract 45% export duty, while pig iron, flat-rolled products of iron or non-alloy steel of a width of 600 mm or more, hot-rolled, not clad, plated or coated, bars and rods, hot-rolled, in irregularly wound coils, of iron or non-alloy steel to attract 15% duty.

$5 tn economy: The curious case of India's rise to the top 5

SUNITHA NATTI

DID India break into the top league as the world's fifth-largest economy taking over the UK? It did, but didn't.

According to the IMF, in 2019, India became the world's fifth largest economy with a nominal GDP of $2.94 trillion overtaking France ($2.71 trillion) and the UK ($2.83 trillion). But the trouble with GDP numbers is that they undergo a series of revisions and the final data comes only with a lag of 2-3 years. In other words, first estimates of national output are ballpark figures and are subjected to revisions, both upwards and downwards.

So, India's $2.94 trillion for 2019 was revised down to $2.83 trillion, while France's and the UK's were revised upward to $2.73 trillion and $2.88 trillion, respectively. The joy was short-lived and what seemed like cracking into the top 5, overtaking our colonial masters Britain didn't materialise even now with India settling at the sixth spot since.

The good news is, the Asia's third-largest economy is likely to not only break into the top 5 this fiscal, but also move one spot ahead to takeover Germany in the next 5 years, as per the latest IMF projections. The forecasts are somewhat believable this time around given the gap between projected output between India and the UK for this year, and between India and Germany for 2027 are a good $20 billion plus, which means, despite factoring a downward revision in both first and second estimates, chances are that India's spot in the top five appears confirmed. In 2021, India's GDP stood at $3.18 trillion, just a notch below the UK's at $3.19 trillion.

Of course, these numbers are subject to revision, but the fact remains that the Indian economy is closing the gap faster. The pace of output growth is slowing down in the UK, thanks to Brexit uncertainty, Covid-related disruptions and the ongoing Ukraine-Russia war is also adding to India's ascent.

In 2022, the IMF projects India's $3.53 trillion economy to overtake Britain's $3.38 trillion. By 2027, the UK's economy will be at $4.55 trillion, while India would have surpassed it with a neat $1 trillion margin settling at $5.53 trillion. And if the forecasts are anything to go by, India is all set to even dethrone Germany, whose nominal GDP is estimated at $5.36 trillion by 2027, to emerge as the world's fourth largest economy.

At the third spot is Japan, whose economy is likely to grow from $4.91 trillion in 2022 to $6.26 trillion. That's less than a $1 trillion gap with that of India's $5.53 trillion and provided there are no major setbacks and if the 7-8% real GDP growth rate continues, the target to compete with Japan's third spot is doable and not really over ambitious either. But breaking into the next phase from thereon would be both challenging and interesting. By 2027, China's economy at an estimated $29.13 trillion would be at a kissing distance to take over the US ($30.97 trillion) as the world's largest economy. From the 9th spot in 2010 trailing countries like Brazil and Italy, India's rise has been dramatic in the past two decades and will be keenly watched.

The IMF, which predicted in April this year that India can not become a $5 trillion economy until 2028-2029 has re-worked its forecast early this month. As per the revision, India will be a $5 trillion economy by 2026-2027, two years earlier than they initially predicted and a $5.5 trillion economy in FY28 or calendar year 2027. The change in forecast was due to the assumption that the rupee will depreciate to 84 against the dollar and not 94, as per the IMF.
